O that college days may never slip into the forgettable past, we write these books.

So that the friendships of those fleeting years may be once more recalled—to fill us with a glorious spirit of fraternity with our classmates and our professors—and though we may have advanced in years, that we may see it all as it was—some of it possibly tempered with the change in person—but most of it once again the same old picture.

So that the history of Alma Mater's sons may be recorded—one link in the chain is this—and one of the strongest we have tried to make it.

History of the Lehigh University

EHIGH UNIVERSITY was chartered by the Legislature of Pennsylvania by act dated February 9, 1866. It was formally opened at exercises held September 1, 1866.

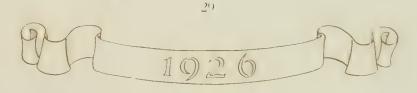

The founding of Lehigh was the outcome of a movement inaugurated in 1865 by the Hon. As a Packer of Mauch Chunk, with the purpose of affording education in the learned professions as then recognized, and likewise training in technical branches, the importance of which was then just becoming apparent in the economic readjustment following the close of the Civil War. Judge Packer was a pioneer in a most significant phase of industrial development, the transportation of coal from the anthracite mines of Pennysylvania to tide-water. He became the recognized master of canal boat transportation. Then, foreseeing the supplanting of boat by train as a carrier of coal, he built the Lehigh Valley Railroad from Mauch Chunk to Easton, later extending it to the port of Perth Amboy and deeper into the coal region of the Wyoming Valley and into New York State. The crowning work of the life of this great industrial leader whom President McCrea of the Pennsylvania Railroad once termed "conspicuous among great men and public benefactors" was his conception of a university in the Lehigh Valley which should provide for "a complete professional education." His purpose, as set forth in the first Register of Lehigh University, included this statement:

"While such an institution promises to be of peculiar benefit to the Lehigh Valley, and to the numerous other districts of Pennsylvania which are rich in mineral resources of many kinds, its usefulness will not be thus limited. It is intended for the benefit of the whole country: the instruction which it imparts will enable its graduates to play intelligent parts in exploring and developing the resources of all portions of the United States."

From its early years to the present, the University fulfilled this aim; Lehigh has always been more than local in enrollment, appeal and influence.

Judge Packer's initial donation to Lehigh included $500,000 and a large tract of land, to which he added largely during his lifetime and by his will. He did not permit his name to become a part of the corporate title of the institution, believing, as has recently been brought out, that, "the new University would be called upon for service far in excess of what could be done by the original endowment, and he did not intend, through self-glorification, to deny others the opportunity of forwarding the work." Since its foundation, the equipment and resources of Lehigh have steadily increased, due to the continued interest of the University's trustees, alumni and friends.

The first President of Lehigh University was Dr. Henry Coppeé, a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, who served with distinction in the Mex can War, and had experience as an educator at West Point and at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Coppeé served both as President and as Professor of History and English Literature.

The "general plan" of study as originally outlined and carried out up to 1872, provided for two years in elementary branches, in which the students were called First and Second Classmen, and two years in professional subjects, in which the students were called Junior and Senior Schoolmen. There were five schools: General Literature, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts; Civil Engineering, to the degree of C. E.; Mechanical Engineering, to the degree of M. E.; Metallurgy and Mining, to the degree of E. M.; Analytical Chemistry, to the degree of A. C.

In 1871 Judge Packer increased his original gifts to the University and the original tuition fees were discontinued. In 1891 the Board of Trustees was again compelled to charge for tuition.

The Wilbur Scholarship, a prize of $200 given annually to the student in the Sophomore Class having the highest general average, was established in 1872 by the late E. P. Wilbur, for many years a trustee of the University.

Dr. Coppeé resigned the Presidency in 1875, retaining the chair of the English Language and Literature.

Dr. J. M. Leavitt was President of the University from 1876 to 1880. During his administration the Lucy Packer Linderman Library was built.

The third President of Lehigh, Dr. Robert A. Lamberton, served from 1880 to 1893. These years were marked by an enlargement in the scope of the School of Technology, including the establishing of Separate chairs of Mining and Geology, Mechanical Engineering and Electrical Engineering, subjects which had formerly been given in other departments. The buildings erected in Dr. Lamberton's administration were a gymnasium, completed in 1883, a chemical and metallurgical laboratory in 1884 and Packer Memorial Church, the gift of Mary Packer Cummings, daughter of Judge Packer, in 1887.

For eighteen months following the death of Dr. Lamberton in 1893, the duties of the President were carried by the Senior Professor and the first President of Lehigh, Dr. Coppeé. Upon Dr. Coppeé's death in March, 1895, Dr. W. H. Chandler, as Senior Professor, was acting President until the inauguration, in June, 1895, of Dr. Thomas Messinger Drown.

Ten years of service were devoted to Lehigh by Dr. Drown, years in which the University steadily advanced in reputation in the world of technology. "Dr. Drown's incumbency left," as has been said, "an abiding impression on the University, of his refined, gentle and cultured personality." Williams Hall, devoted to the Departments of Mechanical Engineering, Geology and Biology, was erected in 1902. It was named in honor of the donor, Dr. E. H. Williams, Jr., of the class of 1875, for many years Professor of Mining and Geology.

It was during the days of Lehigh's financial stress, in the nineties, that the alumni came forward with substantial aid and began the era of direct alumni participation in University affairs, that which found expression in the election to the Presidency, in 1905, of Henry Sturgis Drinker, a graduate of the School of Mines of the Class of '71.

Bringing to his new work thirty years of experience with men and affairs as an engineer, lawyer and business man, Dr. Drinker saw that the most pressing need of the University was better facilities for student life. The alumni program for promoting the physical welfare and comfort of the student body, resulted in Taylor Hall, the large dormitory (1907), later supplemented by a smaller dormitory, Price Hall; in the Commons, the student dining-hall (1907); in Drown Memorial Hall, the social home of the student body (1907). Upon encouragement from the trustees, the fraternities are building their houses on the Campus, so that the community phase of under-graduate life is being promoted.

An important feature of the program has been the building of an athletic plant that makes effective Lehigh's scheme of physical education, by which every student in college takes regular exercise under supervision and receives scholastic credit for the work. For the inception of the idea of this athletic lay-out, and for the gift making it possible, the University is indebted to Charles L. Taylor, of Pittsburgh, a graduate in the Class of 1876 and a Trustee for many years, upon whom the University conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering in 1919. Dr. Taylor in 1913 gave a large gymnasium and swimming pool and also an equipped field-house. The construction of the remainder of the plant, a concrete stadium and an additional playing field for the students, was aided by funds donated by alumni and friends of the University.

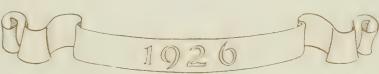

During President Drinker's administration there was a marked expansion in educational equipment. The gift to the University in 1910 of the Fritz Engineering Laboratory, endowed by the will of its donor, John Fritz, furnished the Civil Engineering department an exceptional plant. The Eckley B. Coxe Mining Laboratory (1910) became a conspicuous asset of the course in Mining Engineering.

The remodeling of Coppeé Hall in 1913 furnished quarters for classes in the College of Arts and Science and the College of Business Administration.

A $75,000 extension was made in 1919-20 to the Chemical Laboratory, furnishing up-to-date facilities to the Department of Chemistry and Chemical Engineering.

The service of Lehigh men in the World War is commemorated in the Lehigh Alumni Memorial Hall, a building donated to the University by the Alumni, as a memorial and also for use for administration offices. Of 5,700 Lehigh men whose addresses are known, 1800 were in active service in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, in grades ranging from private to Brigadier General and from Seaman to Lieutenant Commander. Forty-six Lehigh men gave their lives for their country. In national service as manufacturers of products essential to the success of the war, Lehigh alumni were conspicuous.

Upon the entrance of the United States into the war, the trustees and Faculty of Lehigh University tendered to the Government the facilities of the University and the services of the teaching staff. In response to this offer, the War Department and other departments made use of the Fritz Engineering Laboratory and the Chemical Laboratory. In the Fritz Laboratory the government made extensive tests in reinforced concrete to determine its suitability for ship construction; these tests were continued for many months after the signing of the armistice. Members of the faculty and teaching force engaged in important war organization work and seventeen served as commissioned officers in the Army and Navy.

From May 9 to December 4, 1918, courses of instruction were given at Lehigh University to 1,151 vocational students in army service. The courses included work in electrical trades, locomotive engineering and firing, railroad track work, road construction, telegraphy, battery repair mechanics, etc. These classes were conducted by the University in cooperation with the Bethlehem Steel Company, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company and the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company.

A unit of the Student Army Training Corps was in operation at Lehigh University from September to December, 1918. The total number of students at Lehigh in the military and naval service of the United States was 539. The remainder of the University's total enrollment of 742 were practically all ineligible for induction on account of age, physical disability or foreign birth. A voluntary unit of the Reserve Officers Training Corps was instituted in 1919. Regular army officers are stationed by the War Department in charge of this R. O. T. C. unit, which has been signally successful, having won the War Department's "distinguished" rating for the past three years.

President Drinker retired in 1920, and Vice-President N. M. Emery, '99, held the reins for two years until a successor was found in Charles Russ Richards, M. M. E., Eng. D., LL. D. Dr. Richards came to Lehigh from the University of Illinois, where he was Dean of the College of Engineering and Director of the Engineering Experiment Station. Prior to his connection with Illinois he was on the faculty of the University of Nebraska for twenty years, and was responsible for the organization and building up of the Department of Mechanical Engineering there.

President Richards was elected by a Board of Trustees that was largely composed of Lehigh graduates. His administration marks the high water mark of alumni influence in the direction of Lehigh, for 12 of the 17 members of the present Board are Lehigh Men. Hence it was natural that when President Richards had completed his survey of the existing plant and personnel and concluded that additional endowment was urgently needed, the Alumni of Lehigh responded generously, and enthusiastically undertook the conduct of a campaign to raise $4,000,000. Through their efforts and the help of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and the Rockefeller Foundation, the productive endowment of Lehigh was practically doubled in one year.

The increased income has enabled the University to strengthen very materially its organization, both in the administrative and in the academic departments. The resultant progress toward even higher scholastic standard is attracting an ever increasing number of students. In the rush of modern American progress, Lehigh is applying the most modern American methods to keep "a step ahead of the rest."

Today, with the sixtieth year of splendid achievement passing into history, Lehigh looks forward confidently, knowing that those who have gone before have laid sturdy foundations of work, service and accomplishment to support the splendid structure that the Architect has planned for the future.

History

M. J. CALLOW

HE Class of Nineteen Twenty-five can be called the Transition Class. We entered college under the old administration and we will graduate under the new. During our stay in college certain things have undergone a change and it has been most interesting to us, not only to have watched these developments, but to have taken part in them. As Freshmen in contact with the three classes above us, we had become imbued with the spirit of Old Lehigh. As Seniors we will leave our college with the spirit of New Lehigh. Twenty-five has been particularly fortunate, for we have been able to enjoy the good things of the old college and as alumni we shall be able to consider ourselves as belonging to the new college whose bright future means so much to us.

We have some cherished memories. Who is there of this class who does not recall with a thrill of pleasure, our under-class banquets? Our Freshman banquet, the over-night stay in Allentown, the time spent there and our truimphal return! But this was merely preparation for the Sophomore banquet, undoubtedly one of the best ever held in the history of the college. Who can forget that glorious feast? But that was in the Dark Ages, before the Reformation.

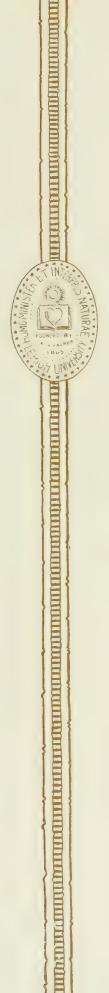

Now as we are about to leave our college and go out into the world, we can look back upon these last four years and say that they were good. There is but one regret; we did not see a victory over Lafayette. The class will not pass away with our graduation. Though we are leaving college we will preserve our unity, bound by a bond of common interest in working for our Alma Mater, maintaining the friendships made in college and keeping the traditions of our class.

DAVID HEATON ABEL

Ogontz, Pa.

B.A.; Robert W. Blake Society; Deutscher Verein.

AVE entered Lehigh in the autumn of 1920 from the Frankford High School. The first two years of college life were passed in trying to adjust himself to the peculiarities of life in Bethlehem, especially to that unique feature of Lehigh College life—six eight o'clock classes. At the beginning of his Junior year he did not return to college but parted a very large large. but entered a year later as a Junior with the Class of '25. His favorite sayings are non-existent and Philos has proved both his joy and sorrow in college. His college days are rapidly passing and with the approach of June he both hopes, and works, in order to be permitted to partake of a fuller life in the world.

ROBERT BURNETTE ADAMS

Brockton, Mass.

Bus. Ad.; Class President (1); Class Vice-President (3); Athletic Representative (4); Cotillion; Phi; Cyanide; Sword and Crescent, President; Varsity Football (1); Varsity Baseball (1, 2, 3, 4); Captain (3, 4); Kappa Sigma.

ROCKTON'S gift to Lehigh in 1921 was the lad you see above. 'Tis a shame the city's products aren't as fine as the town itself. However after his four and a half years at this great institution of learning, a startling change has been wrought.

The musical "Dutch" inflection has been substituted for the flat "A", numerous honors have been attained, and the fair damsel found. What more could go to make up a fitting climax for one's college career?

If the subject above, about which this article is written retains his good looks arranges things with the "gal," and lays off the "brew," he should, with all his faults, become a distinguished gentleman and a credit to his University.

CHARLES WESLEY ALLEN

Reading, Pa. "Pete"

E.M.; Assistant Manager of Lacrosse (3). Arcadia (4); Mining and Metallurgical Society (3, 4); Tau Beta Pi; Delta Upsilon.

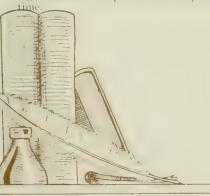

ON smiling countenance belongs to one of Lehigh's best known sons. Everyleide sons. Everybody knows "Pete." The why of this somewhat plebian sobriquet remains a thing of mystery to us all, and was probably bequeathed to him by some adoring maid while still in swaddling clothes, because he was "so different."

After diligent inquiry we learn that Reading, the town made famous by pretzels and bock beer (both of which are unknown to our hero!), claims him as a son by birth, and Allentown equally so by adoption. 'Tis rumored that not only the similarity of names attracts him to our neighboring fair city, but that the very popular little imp Dan Cupid has a share in the proceedings.

We predict a brilliant future for him in the mining field, but at the same time cannot help but admit that he is specializ-ing in "be mine" expressions at the present

East Orange, N. J. "Pop" "Walter"

E.E.; Electrical Society; Cross Country Squad (3, 4).

HIS, O most gentle reader is a most perfect specimen of the Electrical Engineer of the species East Orange and the genera New Jersey. Its skin is thick so that it may resist the sting of the dreadful Jersey mosquito. It has long legs to prevent its being drowned as it goes about its daily duties in the swamps of N. J.

In its youth it had thought to chase the "firey B. T. U." but as it became mature it decided to collect K. W.'s instead, knowing that its time with the B. T. U.'s would someday be too long anyhow.

It is reported that T. A. Edison, a fellow Orangeite, is looking to his laurels due to the phenomenal accomplishments of this creature, in Electrical Engineering.

Although a member of the suicide (cross country) squad, it has shown a spark of intelligence in that it has learned to apply its art, if it be such.

O all whom this may concern, Beware!

This man, J. B. Austin, is one of the best swordsmen of the realm. He is a man of war, being skilled in the proper use of the machine gun, rifle, pistol, poison gases, and the two edged sword. Cross him not, for his vengeance is as swift as his two edged tongue which he wields furiously on all occasions.

Mathematics and Chemistry are his meat. He revels in them as many another would if let loose in a distillery. Few indeed have been the classes where he has not come out on the top.

It has been rumored about that the Government is negotiating to acquire Mr. Austin as Director of the Bureau of Standards, we, however take no stock in this rumor, for we were told by Austin himself that he intended to enter the Ministry.

CLARENCE CORNELIUS AYRES, JR.

R. O. T. C. Lieutenant Ayres will convince you that it will convince you that if you did not take the Advanced Course, you did not get the most out of Lehigh.

Hailing from the banks of the Delaware in the shadows of the famous Chester shipyards, comes our "quiet," "unassum-ing," Clarence.

Clarence is quite an expert in the communication line. Many a time he may be found with his partner, E. Lehman Binkley, busily engaged devising and constructing various kinds of equipment.

We predict, that some day Clarence will become a great consulting electrical engineer, due to his ability to put across subjects pertaining to electricity in a clear and concise manner.

FREDERIC CHARLES BARTON, JR.

Tenafly, N. J.

"Fritz" "Bart" "Bugs"

Bus.Ad.; Class football (1, 2); Phi Sigma Kappa.

UGS began his career at Englewood, N. J., although the townspeople hate to admit it.

At an early age he acquired his flirtative habits as is evidenced by Exeter, Blair and Stevens as his list of prep schools. Upon his arrival at Lehigh he started as an Electrical, jumped to Arts and Science, was reconverted to the Electrical Department, and finally decided to be just a plain business man. In his proposed matrimonial projects to all accounts he has been just as elusive, and by his varying friendship with Danny, Bob, Charlie, Eddie, Casey, Keating and Connie he has completed his erratic collegiate career. Faithful as the rising sun in his attendance at all athletic events, always late for classes, given to vivid ties and collegiate clothes, always ready to argue, whether he knew the subject or not, overdue on all reports, Bugs in his five years at Lehigh became quite an institution.

NTRODUCING one Kenneth William Yates Batz. Hearing of Lehigh's fame he promptly registered in the Mechanical Engineering course. It is said that when he inscribed his initials K.W.Y.B. the Bursar caustically inquired as to whether he was registering a wireless station or a freshman. Meanwhile the academic battle was on and the Profs. were at all times ready to burst the bubble of his fond Nevertheless he upheld young dreams. the social end of things as was evidenced by frequent trips to Salisbury.

ROM the land of cotton and mint juleps a quiet and unassuming young man came to us some four years ago. Without making much ado about it, he was always noticed among those present at college functions and absent at final examinations.

For the next three years Al was so busy with his manifold campus activities that he made the proverbial paperhanger look like a lazy oyster. How a man can combine with serious scholastic work the enormous burden of many extra-curriculum activities and successfully discharge the obligation to be a good fellow. is a question some of us, his friends, have sat up late at night discussing and then slept through eight o'clocks as a result.

FREDERICK CHARLES BECK

Philadelphia, Pa.

"Freddie" "Fritz" "F.C."

E.E.; Varsity Wrestling (3, 4), Squad (2); Freshman Team; Varsity Club; Freshman Football; E. E. Society; Arcadia (4); Theta Kappa Phi.

ECEMBER 1, 1902, in the wake of a howling North Easter, Freddie made his initial bow to this world by being wrung from the talons of a stork and dropped in a quiet little home in the northern section of the Sleepy City.

As a youth he displayed a marked liking for electrical work, as was exempli-fied by his wrecking the family telephone, vacuum cleaner, etc., in an effort to pry into their inner workings. Equipped with this training he naturally thought he was adapted for the profession of E. E., so L. U., in the fall of 1921, welcomed him.

The question naturally arises—why did he intrust his tender form to Lehigh? The answer—Lehigh's famous wrestling teams, for one thing. Some subtle inner force was constantly urging him to the great indoor sport, to which Fred took as naturally as a duck to water.

CHARLES WENDELL BEGGS

Wilkinsburg, Pa. "C.W." "Luke"

Ch.E.; Sophomore Relay; Sophomore Council; Track (1, 2, 3, 4); Vice-President, Chemical Society (3); Tau Beta Pi (3, 4); Scabbard and Blade (3, 4); Arcadia (4); Varsity Club (3).

UT of nothing, nothing comes but out of the smoke of the Pittsburgh district came Luke. So here, ladies, is the boy who casts disdainful glances at the unwashed millions of Bes'lem. Never has the Colosseum seen his smiling counte-nance nor beheld him tripping the light fantastic toe. But his delight is in the Laws of Physical Chemistry, and on these Laws doth he meditate day and night.

As a student, he has had an enviable career, having thrown himself into college life with "wim and wigor." In his Sophomore year he rose to prominence as Warlord of the Brewery and he will be long remembered by certain members of the class of '26.

To sum it all up, after having braved the storms of the Chemical Department he has emerged a true Lehigh man.

"Doggon it Himmel"

FREDERICK CHRISTIAN BERG

Philadelphia, Pa.

"Slim"

N.E.; Brown and White (1, 2, 3, 4); Circulation Manager (4); Band (1, 2); Pi Delta Epsilon; Sigma Phi Epsilon.

LIM came here five years ago, fresh from Chestnut Hill Academy. Having seen the ferry boats ply their way between Philly and Camden, Fred decided that the sailor's life was the one for him, so he started to attend classes with the other aspirants for the degree of N.E.

He dropped out a year in order to get more practical knowledge about boats and other things necessary to a sailor's life. We must say he certainly acquired knowledge about some things other than boats. When he expects us to believe his famous yarn about the time that the wind blew the water out of a river in Germany, well, we have been educated ourselves.

On any athletic field, dance floor, or bridge of a boat, Slim looks equally prepossessing.

It is rumored that he intends to start ferry service across the Lehigh River in competition with the New St. bridge after he gets his diploma.

FRANCIS JOSEPH BERGER

Wilkes-Barre, Pa. "F. J."

"Frank"

E.E.

RANK was born in Scranton and raised in Wilkes-Barre so he is a genuine coal cracker, up homer, and all that sort of thing. His childhood ambi-tion was to become a trolley car motor-man so, to avoid work for four years more, he came to Asa Packer's institution to pursue the curriculum in Electrical pursue the Engineering.

The chase has been a merry one, but in spite of the efforts of the Math. Department to prolong it, he appears to be winning out.

Francis has a leaning toward poetry, complicated with a passion for movies and other forms of amusement, so he has had little time to devote to the fair sex. His quiet, reserved manner has won him many friends, but it has also caused considerable discussion as to whether it conceals a mental vacuum or a brilliant mind. Time alone will tell.

"Who said so?"

JAMES ELMER BEVAN

Frackville, Pa.

"Scoop"

"Bev."

E.E.; Electrical Engineering Society; Wrestling Squad (2, 3, 4); Cheer Leader (3)

HEN James Elmer alighted from the "Black Diamond," his first act, after carefully brushing off the coal dust of his home town, was to hunt up

"Natt" and ask for instructions about becoming an Electrical Engineer. "Natt" referred him to "Pop" Esty, with whom he held a short one-sided conversation, lasting for about two hours, in which everything from the alphabet to the fourth dimension was casually mentioned as being part of an embryo E.E.'s knowl-

After finishing his Sophomore year, he decided that the social side of his education had been shamefully neglected. So, fortified with one lesson from John Cunningham, and numerous sessions on the mat under Billy Sheridan, "Bev" presented himself at the Nativity, where he can now be seen every Friday night.

Beside the good opposition furnished the wrestling team, "Bev's" all-round good humor and unfailing "hello" on the campus will be sorely missed.

You're darned right"

JAMES TRUMAN BIDWELL

Portland, Oregon "Biddv"

B.A.; Secretary of Interfraternity Council; Alexander Hamilton Club; Chi Psi.

HIS, gentle reader is a sad story of the reversal of the adage, "Go West, my son, go West. Some three years ago we were sitting in the living room when suddenly we heard the galloping of hoofs and a sonorous "Whoa." Rushing to the door whom should we see but our hero. J. Truman Bidwell, commonly known as "Two Gun Tru," dismounting from his noble steed and wearing a huge sombrero in approved Portland style.

Since his arrival here at Lehigh, "Tru" has made a host of friends as is proved by his popularity around the campus and among the fair sex at all college functions. Beau Brummel had nothing on him. His frequent visits to New York City would lead us to believe that he considers it a suburb of Bethlehem.

But now our campus days are almost over and it is with the greatest regret that we all must part we to our East and "Tru" to his beloved West, or as he calls

it "God's Country."

"High-powered."

EDWARD LEHMAN BINKLEY

Hagerstown, Md.

"Bink"

E.E.

UT of the beautiful Cumberland Valley comes E. Lehman, to brave the temptations and perils of college life. We have evidence to believe that Lehman led quite a social life during his prep school days at Hagerstown High and came to Lehigh with the purpose of forgetting part of college life and stressing the cholastic end.

During Lehman's four years, he has taken very few finals and is one of the few Electricals to rate A's on most of the quizzes.

There is only one unpardonable sin which he committed while sojourning at Lehigh. He had to take the Light and Sound final!

We predict that Lehman, through his ability to master theory and to apply it in a very capable manner, will someday be one of the foremost research engineers of the country.

"That's a dickens of a note."

ALFRED GREENE BLAKE

Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Park" "Fred" "Sparkie"

C.E.; Business Manager of the Burr (4); Burr Staff (1, 2, 3); Secretary of Class (1); Cheer Leader (2); Civil Engineering Society; Kappa Beta Phi; Cotillion, B.U.X.; Chi Psi.

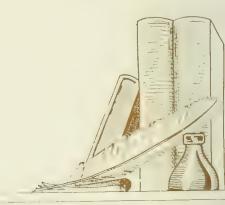

NCE upon a time a small youth was heralded on the banks of the fair Pacific (Los Angeles). Spurred onward by the tales of mighty iron clad monsters, he wandered from the land of ever blooming flowers to the land of ever blowing smoke stacks, (Pittsburgh).

Education has certainly proved effective in Park's case and we find that his most pronounced tendency is toward sane business methods. His management. of the business department of the "Burr" fully exemplifies this statement.

Park came to us a small boy, now he leaves us a big man and we wish him many successful and happy years in the future.

WILLIAM HAROLD BOKUM

Jenkintown, Pa.

"Bill"

E.E.; Varsity Wrestling Squad (2, 3, 4); Arcadia (4); Freshman Wrestling Team; Kappa Sigma.

ILL is a fellow who makes very little noise, accomplishes much, holds his friends and uses, continually, a great amount of good sense in all that he endeavors to do. He is noted for his diligence and conscientiousness, and has proven himself capable of assuming responsibility. If hard work will get you anywhere his success is assured. Having a rare judgment, a keen sense of humor and the characteristic quality of living and let live, his life should be a path of roses strewn with an occasional thorn which will be his "affaires de coeur." Bill is distinctly the "true to her" type and that is saying a lot in these days when variety is the spice of love! His great dissipation has been the shows, and the dances at B-Thorpe; but all in all, a man to look up to as a good living example. Success! Barney, Old Boy.

LOUIS BOUTELL BOND

Elkins Park, Pa.

"Looey" "Empshi"

M.E.; Assistant Manager of Track (1923); Band (1, 2, 3, 4); Delta Upsilon.

ARK ANTHONY said. "The evil that men do lives after them, the good that they do lies interred with their bones." So let it be with Louis, a native of Elkins Park, who came to Lehigh fully convinced that education would never interfere with his pleasures. He was very ambitious as evidence of He was very ambitious, as evidence of which, he holds the record for taking the most exams, never refusing an invitation extended to him by the Faculty, in fact, it was discovered that in some cases he repeated courses in order to be present at the exams that followed. He is now completing his first publication "My First Ten Years at Lehigh."

He holds the undisputed honor of being able to play any instrument with a mouthpiece.

RUSSELL BERGER BORDA

Schuylkill Haven, Pa.

"Kid" "Russ"

Bus.Ad.; Freshman Basket-ball; Freshman Base-ball; Alexander Hamilton Club; Robert W. Blake Society.

USS is one of the representatives of the up-state coal regions. Having seen the efforts of engineers end in nothing but a habitual life of grime and grease, he, contrary to local sentiment, decided upon a life of leisure and became one of Baldy's shock troops. Since then he seems to have developed quite an interest in educational advancement along broad lines for the fair sex, and has devoted many an evening to the attainment of this end at a well-known institution of learning on the outskirts of Allentown.

Some time ago he was persuaded to take up golf but has quit in disgust, claiming that the only thing he could see in the game was the 19th hole, of which he is a staunch advocate, along with Bob.

ROBERT OSWALD BORDEN

Front Royal, Va.

"Ossy"

M.E.; Arcadia; Theta Xi.

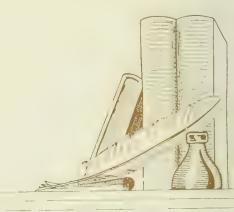

OMING from the land of milk and liquid corn "Ossy" arrived at the Lehigh Valley Station four years ago fired with the ambition to be a Mechanical Engineer. With a suave manner he attacked the problems of entropy and the baffling intricacies of "savoir faire" practiced at the "Colly."

He became a typical "man about college." He studied when necessary. He mingled with the sirens of Terpsichorean fame. He created castles in Spain. He inhaled vast clouds of cigarette smoke. His goolashes plodded unbuckled in the winter snows. He explained perpetual motion machines. He devised steam charts. And yet, marvel upon marvel, he understood the mechanism of the Phord and graduates as a Mechanical Engineer and a rotten beer drinker.

VERHEARD at the Dance: John: "I can't dance." She: "My Gawd, why did you ask me to dance?"

John: "To see if you could."

This is a typical Bowman line, and who ever thought he was like this?

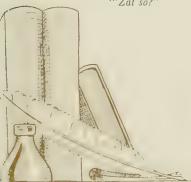

Yes, he is a regular bearcat with the ladies, since he learned to dance, and most of the girls will dance with him, at least once.

And can he sleep? Oh, apparently not, between 11 P. M. and 7 A. M., but you can bet your last cent that at any other time, including classes, if he isn't asleep it isn't his fault.

He never studies, but his lucky god always hangs over him and what he doesn't know, he slides thru on his reputation and personality.

Just at present—he seems H—l bent on matrimony in the near future and the question is; Will Mrs. J. G. B. see Lafayette beaten next Fall?

"Zat so?"

HARLIE or 'Joe' as he was more commonly known among his colleagues, came to college when he was very young, having received his earlier instruction in that well-known institution of Montclair Academy. He was a chap who was as innocent of the ways of college effort he became the 'idol' of the girls and a 'man of affairs' in soccer circles.

"Joe" has made many friends, because of his pleasing personality and his faithfulness to both his business and social duties. He has also secured many more friends by being apt at doctoring "shellshocked cars", and we wish him as successful a career in the engineering field as has been his college career.

"Brownie" "Pop" "Ernie"

E.E.; Student Officer R.O.T.C. (4); Scabbard and Blade (4).

ITH the entering of the Twentieth Century we have another Brown sprouting up at Lebanon but this one was to be different from all the others of his large.

clan; he was supposed to lead them all. As a youngster he excelled in nothing but eating. But with age came wisdom and with wisdom, knowledge until now we have through hard work an engineer which Asa Packer himself would laud. However, shocks, electricity, M. S. & T., and books did not occupy all of the time of "Pop" Brown for he has often demonstrated to us his skill as a hand ball artist. He also took frequent excursions to Auburn to visit his relatives, as he tells us. But all in all "Pop" is sufficiently prepared to carry on what others could not.

MERRITT WEAVER BROWN

Bethlehem, Pa.

"Brownie" "Sheik" "Doctor"

B.A.; Deutscher Verein (3, 4)

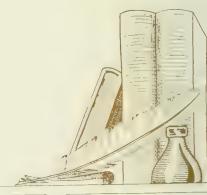

ERRITT is one of our many Bethlehem boys. Merritt's interests are chiefly in medicine, biology, chemistry, religion, and women, (both elementary and advanced). He has decided to start his career as a teacher of chemistry, but his greatest ambition is to become an M.D. In this profession he should be a great success since in the times gone by, our best physicians have come from the family whose name is Brown.

Throughout his college career Merritt has been trying to find out what makes apples kick when in the form of cider. He is inclined to believe that apples, which have no legs, should not kick however, badly they are pressed, since girls do not.

Merritt has always been deeply interested in the Christian Religion as President of his Christian Endeavor Society and that of the City Union as well as delegate to their conventions.

ARTHUR WILLIAM BUERMANN

Newark, N. J.

"Art" "Monk"

M.E.; Square and Compass

AVING tried all the High Schools in Newark. "Monk" arrived at the conclusion that college would be the next adventure. We are told that he went to Rutgers and there received the required hardships of a four year extended course. It must have been tough but somehow the Mechanical Engineering Department there rejoiced when he was pronounced "out".

One day we saw "Monk" roaming about over the hills of Lehigh and according to best advices he is still in pursuit of the life of an engineer. When our friend is lazy the world is lazy with him and like all monkey wrench wielders upholds the union by eating, chewing, smoking, speaking and opposing eight o'clock classes

In memory to the advancement of science Art Buermann is an engineer Who hates the women like the beer But tell no one for he'd be ashamed To be thus publicly defamed.'

FTER George finished with the Kaiser, he crashed into Bethlehem with a beaming smile and a lookout for anything. So he would not have to bother with too many classes he entered the Arts and Science Department. After varying experiences within and without the University, George was forced to the conclusion that German was his Waterloo. However he was very successful, in the English Department, gathering credits, thanks to his great liking for poetry and his winning ways.

Bill won his letters breaking all records for Field Days and week-end trips. Oh Bill! you fooled us for a long time but now we know. In fact during the last year he left the boys to live with some one else.

NE balmy autumn day in the fall of 1921 a train pulled into the Lehigh Valley station, said train coming from the coal regions where "men are men and bootleggers are safe." To the more or less innocent bystander there was nothing unusual about this train as it had pulled into the station and out again every day for months. However, this particular "choo-choo" had something to unload besides baggage, namely several potent frosh.

No one calculated that among these embryo wearers-of-the-inkspot was one of Lehigh's future greats but sure enough the lad with the tight fitting trousers and round hat was Ted Burke.

even believe the warnings that Windy

Wilson gives him in the form of valentines. It was not long after the "Wop" came to Lehigh that he met his fate at one of the College Dances. From that time on we have seldom had his company for the week-ends, the fair company in Ambler having the stronger hold on him.

Johnny's great propensity for mathematics leads us to believe that no better man could be found who could fill "Snotty" Lambert's place with the same brusque dignity and understanding of mathematics.

As a Civil Engineer John expects to make a better rose grower. In this we wish him the best of success knowing that he has a sweet job ahead of him. May your life ever be over a path of roses.

HE statisticians compile some tables that are worthy of consideration. For instance, we are told that two out of every three Scotsmen are ultimately destined to find a place somewhere in the far-reaching ranks of the allied engineering professions. Furthermore, we are told that the remaining thirty three per cent are ordained to handle the financial, polictial and educational affairs of the British Empire!

Then, lest an error be found in their computations, these doughty mathematicians assert that the final one third per cent. are born prodigies among a race that is generally termed dour., in other words, are born royal good fellows!

Once in several generations we find one of the last mentioned. The proof of this theory and of these figures appears above.

From his earliest days in college he has been an interested student in psychology, in fact, he has not stopped there but has endeavored to put his learning into practice. From all we hear, it is evident that he was very successful in his latest attempt. Need we say that there is a woman in the case—you would surely guess it if you knew Shorty. Her name is Polly and unlike her name she is not at all "parroty" but is a real nice girl. No kidding either!

During his spare hours Shorty has made an indelible impression on the "Cave" while making the intimate acquaintance of the much toasted "Bacchus.

ADIES and gentlemen direct your attention this way for a few minutes and behold the latest in college men. Little was it thought that when diminutive John Marshall Coulton stepped into Leonardo High School that he would four years later step out into that great institution of learning founded by one Asa Packer.

As a matter of course, smiling Jack spent the greater part of his two most interesting years in the ivy clad hall named after Lehigh's founder. Here, he proved to the world his scholastic ability and staying qualities by outgeneralling certain civil profs., in their frantic efforts to have his smilling face appear once again in their famous eight o'clocks.

He decided to follow his brother's footsteps and try his fortunes at Lehigh. It did not take him long to become one of the most likeable and most popular fellows in his class. And instead of losing any of his popularity with the fellows in the following years he has continually added many new friends to his already long list. John's popularity is not confined to the male sex however for he has many friends in the weaker sex. To show what kind of a fellow John is, four of his best lady friends had their faith in mankind so uplifted by contact with him, that they all got married (to somebody else) in the course of one year.

spent in the search of knowledge. Hard years they were, replete with the terrors of Quantitative and Organic. Hooks has never, as far as we know, succumbed to the charms of any of Bethlehem's fair sex, undoubtedly due to the fact that his heart lies far away in the sunny south. As we see him on the threshold of graduation we can not help but think of the loss we will suffer. But he is off to conquer greater worlds and though none of the old haunts will seem the same after he has gone we must surrender him to the arms of the wide, wide world. Though you may little expect it, some day the world will marvel at this man's achievements in the realms of medicine and surgery. Then will his Alma Mater be proud of her son. Even so we can not see why he did not choose U of P for he certainly has a marked appreciation for Philadelphia.

Along about four on any Sunday morning those of us who have gone to bed are rudely awakened by the tintinnabulation of milk bottles on stone steps and, hearing a rather uncertain voice fixing the blame on a disciple of Houdini, we sigh peacefully and go back to sleep with the knowledge that the prince has successfully completed another of his week-end visits to his 'mother' in the Quaker City.

Now please do not take us wrong when we say that because Fred was a mighty fine fellow when he came to Lehigh but hailing from the small town of Baltimore he did not have space to exploit his prowess.

Julian Eltinge would be a good alias for Dort; since entering Lehigh he has shown a wonderful adeptness as an actor and in every production he has taken one of the leading rôles.

In his last two years it was impossible to stop him until you tried to delve into his private matters and then he returned to the habits of his misnomer. Asked where he was and the inevitable answer was "choir practice."

This smooth young man was also an outdoor athlete for in the winter he could inevitably be seen bringing up the rear of the cross-country squad. And then in the spring one could get a laugh any afternoon by visiting the upper field and watching Harry do his special bowlegged hurdling act.

AUL or Brint, as you like it, has a surname that we shan't attempt to write because no one ever gets all the i's and e's in their rightful places. Any-how, Paul started his career at Lehigh as an "Electrical"—possibly with the worthy ideal of some day awakening his native town by some ingenious type of electrolysis -but at the end of his sophomore year he gave up his early dreams and became a powder-eating, mule-driving (we almost added "tobacco-chewing") Miner. Without mentioning his work while an "Electrical," not because it isn't worthy of being mentioned, but because we know nothing of it (neither does he for that matter)—he has proved himself a very able student-in several meanings of the word-in his last-chosen course.

Brint has made many friends in his four years in Bethlehem of the kind that will stick, even when he deserts them for the lure of South American gold—or possibly for the dark, bright eyes of some other South American lure.

He prepared for college at Bethlehem Prep where he came in contact with many ex-Lehigh men doing advanced work and under their influence he decided to take four years of recreation at Lehigh. Shorty's only grievance at college was against the military department. The dislike was mutual for he was discharged from summer camp because of his height. his natural ability and excellent "line" have carried him successfully over "Lehigh's rocky rapids" and will carry him through a successful career as a Chemical Engineer or a bond salesman, whichever he chooses.

that the man in question is a helluva good fellow. He is generally quiet and unassuming, but when "Bosco" does speak, men listen to his words. Many men here at Lehigh, who make a practice of getting "A"s and "B"s, are branded as "course-crabbers." but R. H. Ewart is far from such. It is true that he doesn't go out very much, but much of his college course has been spent in helping the other fellows and in reading popular (?) fiction. Lehigh has never boasted of a more honest and straight-forward man than "Bosco," and his Alma Mater will grow more and more proud of him as he climbs up the ladder of success. And believe us, everybody, he's going to climb high!

being his desire to secure a pre-medical course where he could obtain the best scientific instruction.

Since entering the University he has made quite a name for himself scholastically as well as the most indispensable member of the percussion section of the Band. To witness the careless insouicant manner in which Paul handles the dire-shaped clappers is very gladdening to the eyes. Under the cloak of his seeming innocence

STEINMETZ the second was brought by a stork to the city of pretzel fame, and was cultivated there under the environment of modern industry. While obtaining his elementary knowledge of life and its works at this manufacturing center, his technical aptitude became very marked. At any rate in the year 1921 A. D. he was among several other verdant Freshmen. But this innocent blue-eyed boy was to lead them all in the sciences pertaining to electricity. Much is hidden in this quiet youth for he is likened to a book which you can not judge by its cover. But good old Lehigh and a little fairy Queen have worked much havoc with this young man in the past two years. Prior to this time, "Pop" Brown, his colleague, had had him under his wing, but now the bird has flown. Nevertheless, "Boys will be boys."

AY back in the spring of '21, there issued from Collegiate Prep., in the wilds of blasé Gotham, a blushing, budding youth, heralded as a prodigy of worth and diligence. 'Twas Bert, none other. He had turned his back on the frontier of that admittedly wilder Wisconsin state not long ere that, so, of course, Gotham held no terrors for him. He was manifestly the possessor of that indefinable something which, instead of "x," we shall term "that better judgment," for he chose Lehigh as his future Alma Mater, and that with the implicit faith that the extent of futurity was to be four years. Having observed him in action during the whole of these fleeting cycles, we've garnered a few loose bits of evidence that point suspiciously to an otherwise unaccountable regard for his native Wisconsin. As far as we have ever been able to discern, C. B's only failing is cinema dramas, with limitations.

His college career has been as versatile as his deeds. Entering Lehigh with advanced standing his troubles began early, but like water on the proverbial duck, they were shed to make room for less serious matters. These took the form of everything from soccer, in which he could always be counted upon to play a stellar game, to a marked inclination toward the social. A keen sense of humor and a pleasant personality carried him far in each and every diversion and made him well liked and popular.

ILL comes from that place where men are are scarce. Somehow Bill heard of Lehigh and left his beloved West to pursue a course of learning at this University.

His natural brilliancy in studies has given him spare time to carry on an extended acquaintance among the society of Bethlehem; and his gifts along these lines have made him a fixture at every social function of the University.

Besides being a man admired by the fairer sex, Bill is noted as one of the best golfers in college. Let some of these braggarts play golf with Bill just once they will never boast again!

Bill is so fortunate or unfortunate as to return to Lehigh for a fifth year. The men who graduate this year sincerely wish that his personality might be among those who don the cap and gown this June, and they realize that there will be a gap that only Bill can fill.

TE HAVE stood in stations and watched trains slowly roll in and stop and then after a brief halt move slowly forward, gathering speed and momentum, and finally disappear.

Little did this youth who burst upon us four years ago, liken himself to that majestic monster, that carried him to our quaint Valley. He too rolled slowly into school, stopped a brief moment and then with wider vision, and new surroundings to conquer, began a career so successful that the momentum gained will carry him far into another world that is yet to be conquered.

Lacrosse, literary work and general college interest have gone far to make him popular on the Campus.

And now, gentle reader, our story ended and as he gains speed in the year s come, may it be our fondest desire th the success that he has attained in colle be negligible to that success in the vafield that he is about to enter.

HE year 1920 is noted for two great things, the birth of prohibition and the matriculation of "Charlie" Gallagher into the University on Old South Mountain. Charlie was tall, young and handsome when he left the pleasure resort on the Jersey coast to further his education. He was well up in the world, having passed the six-foot mark.

Basketball being his long suit, he eventually hit his stride and will be remembered as the Varsity center in his last two years. The first Irishman to ever hold the Presidency of the Deutscher Verein was none other than our Charlie. Having kept his connection with the R.O.T.C. during his last two years, he became as good a soldier as he was a Dutchman.

RIDAY, the thirteenth, marked the advent of our "Bub" into the world via that far-famed resort—White Haven. It did not however, endow him with a phlegmatic nature for we all appreciate his sunny disposition and irrepressible optimism. It seems the rarified air of White Haven made Bub a bit flighty, as those who are well acquainted with him have noted, especially regarding the dangerous sex.

We are curious to learn why Bub finds it imperative to go home every week end. He claims to run out of clean shirts but he has worked that so often that it some-times sounds a bit fishy. Hence, idiosynchratic Ed. is a nom de guerre quite fitting, for half the time he is so very quiet, the rest of the time his expression of feelings reminds one of Niagara Falls.

OME twenty odd years ago there was born in the city of Belleville, New Jersey, a young crimson-topped genius who was destined to be one of the world's most peculiar and Lehigh's greatest thrower of the line. Our good friend and would-be-politician spent most of his younger days in the study of harp strings and in chasing fire engines, two habits which he has not as yet forgotten.

His freshman year found him a hard and steady worker although his sophomore year was one during which the lure of the Valley held him in its grip. A summer in Philadelphia among the Quakers where he was daily exposed to the fair sex, seemed to change him into the friend of quiet living and study which seems to have stuck to him very well.

Since he smokes anything including cigarettes he has no future, but we might say that with his zest for argument and his zeal for extravagant conversion.

Having rid himself of the accumulation of dirt and cinders he climbed the hill to the spot made famous by one Asa Packer, where he became one of Baldy's well-known "shock-troops." Besides lacrosse he has also taken a shot at football and basketball, also some other kinds of balls that were a little higher.

Steve likes to juggle figures, the more complicated the better, just as long as the balance turns out right. Still this holds true of all the lucky ones that were able to put Advanced Accounting on their rosters. The other studies follow in popularity from the one where only a fifteen minute nap is necessary to the one that requires an alarm clock to make the following class.

AVING always had inspirations of becoming a motorman on one of the Cumberland street cars, Charles David Holzshu, after completing his preparations at Mercersburg, registered at Lehigh on a very rainy day in September, 1921 to study volts and amperes.

While at college, Chick has not failed to learn of the "enormous possibilities" of issues around Bethlehem in addition to Electrical Engineering. He has learned how to ask a girl for a dance at the Colonial, how to gain admission to the most exclusive German clubs, and has even learned a few choice words in Pennsylvania Dutch. One thing that has caused much amazement is the fact that he could turn down five dates in one week and get six phone calls in the next. Although questioned on many occasions, he flatly refuses to divulge the secret of how anyone can maintain such a drag.

is fortunate that Duck saw no future in such a profession as we all know that his place is in the ranks of the chemical engineers.

Mid-night oil and alarm clocks set at six are proof of this. However, he believes in the old adage "All work and no play, makes Jack a dull boy," and Duck is far from dull. Wine, women, song and Duck are real good friends. The second should be singular, which really in itself in not singular. It is often said that a duck takes to water. This Duck takes to both water and other beverages.

Duck's good nature has gained many friends for him. It is a pleasure to know him. When he leaves his Alma Mater, it will be a case of another good Lehigh

When he was about ten years old his parents thought that Washington was too small for Buck and so they moved to the beautiful town of Bethlehem-on-the-Lehigh in the state of Penna.

Here he graced the halls of Bethlehem Prep where many an anecdote is still told about him. He is often seen driving around in a nice looking car but by the size of his waist line we think that he should either walk or take a look at the inside of the Gym at least once a year. He has been through out his college course, a source of cigarettes that are used between classes on the steps of old Coppeé. Bus is always cheerful even tho he is often roughed up by the whole class. It was about four years ago that "Duke" decided to come to a regular man's college so he left Moravian and came to Lehigh. OT quite "four score and seven years ago" this embryo student arrived in our midst. A resident of the famous city of Allentown, Walker chose a most indirect manner to arrive at our fair institution of learning. He first went to Exeter where he spent a balmy year which may or may not explain many future develop-ments. After a hectic two years spent in the pursuit of material knowledge, in our midst, in the then justly famous "Business Course" Edwin decided that the cultural life had much more of an appeal to his sensitive intellect. Much chaos ensued and many clever substitutions were made. Finally, the brilliant young society leader won out and is now with us as a member of the class of Nineteen-Twenty-five. His actual studies never held much appeal or caused much annoyance but Walker did learn many things in the hard school of experience.

HE biographies of most great men begin with the statement that they were born at some time or other. Harry Knight Kerr is no exception. He first saw the light of day in Philadelphia, and immediately began wondering what it was all about. His wonderings (and wanderings) took him through Central High, Brown Prep, and then over the P. & R. tracks to "Beslem," where his career as a Lehigh man started. He snapped up the freshman prize in German and added "Ich liebe dich" to his vocabulary. The addition proved successful, as in his sophomore year he returned to school with a brand new wife. He continued his college career with redoubled zeal, and at the end of his junior year we find him grinning broadly and murmuring, "It's a boy!" He possesses a keen mind, equally efficient in work or play and is bound to succeed in whatever he undertakes. generous sense of humor, recognized quite oddly even by our own Burro, and more important still, one of Mr. Ford's gasoline consumers, which has carried him many miles up and down the hills of Bethlehem and Allentown.

However, to take him more seriously, we have always found him a steady dependable worker, both in the pursuit of wisdom and in all other affairs which have tended toward the betterment of Lehigh. This perspiring young fellow let out his first bellow on a cold and snowy night in January 1905. Life for him so far has been just a smooth sequence of forseen events. For four long years he has hung around the great seat of knowledge situated on the north side of old South Mountain. During these years he has succeeded in enriching a number of stockholders of the New Street Bridge Company by adding cent by cent to their overflowing coffers. No one knows what will become of the North Side theatres after his departure, as he has been a great support for these necessary places of diversion.

N ye goode olde days of 1904 Jimmie saw his first snowstorm—but little did he realize that twenty years later he would be treading the snow covered paths of Mr. Packer's group of buildings in search of the higher learning. Equipped with this learning he would ome day startle the world, proving by qualitative, as well as quantitative research, that there isn't a thing in snow but water.

Fate was kind, so Jimmie came, saw and, of course, will conquer; not only the whys of chemistry but enough of lacrosse to suit Billy O'Neil's palate and, incidentally, time enough to make a host of friends whom we know will remain friends until all have passed into oblivion.

Tired of working on the farm, "Duke" decided to go to college for a rest. So, he came to Asa Packer's college on the hill and enrolled as a Mining Engineer. (What's the use of being Dutch if you can't be dumb.) His wonderful fluency in "Pennsylvania Dutch" enabled him not only to make many friends, but also made his college work much easier.

Of a naturally modest and retiring nature, "Duke" did not get around much at first, but soon "southpawed" his way into the limelight by means of a tennis.

naturally he wore the uniform when he waltzed into the president's office on one fine day in the spring of '21. There the president greeted him by asking for the message. Since then he has steered clear of uniforms wherever possible.

The full glory of his short, but varied career could never be set forth in the few lines alloted. In his Freshman year he distinguished himself by making the Frosh wrestling team and extinguished himself in the first meet. Not discouraged by this he made the Burr board and Glee Club that year. He carried both these activities thruout his college days.

become aware of the fact that there are other worlds to conquer.

He has contracted that weakness for the other sex that is so common to Lehigh men. Allentown has been his paradise-Women his nemesis—and the 3:45 often his Rolls-Royce.

Nate has not confined his activities to the above mentioned for he has been a steady worker all year round, first on the basketball court and then with the track and cross-country teams. In these fields he has more than made his mark and has left his name inscribed on the tablets of Lehigh athletics.

immortal words, "Give me metallurgy or

The oracle decreed that he go to Lehigh so we have Mike with us. From the way Mike took part in his activities one would never know that he was an engineer, but rather an arts man, so cultured and carefree, you know.

Mike's ability and love for the game explains many hours spent on the upper field waving a lacrosse stick. The previously mentioned ability has also made him rather conspicuous with our soft-hearted sisters. Then there is that extra advantage—that hair. 'Tis true that the Gods "gypped" somebody to give Mickey more than his share.

heard that name since entering Lehigh. It is hard to say what his nickname is, he has been called almost every name that the tertile brain of a college man could invent but "Wuffles" will probably stick. He is an exponent of the philosophy that life is not serious enough to get excited about and it serves him well.

His purpose in coming to Lehigh was to get an education in the Arts and Exact Sciences. Chemical Engineering is the Exact Science. The Arts part has turned out to be a practical study of Sociology and his quest of specimens has lead him to many strange and peculiar places. This continued for over two years when one day he returned with chicken pox. After this siege he became a real student and the reason for the change was not known until the spring House Party. He has been a student ever since.

N the summer of 1917, "Bob" left the "Smoky City", otherwise known as Pittsburgh, and made the one great mistake of his life—moving to Bethlehem, Pa., where he has since resided. Having a four years' start on all of us, he should have known better than to enter Lehigh in the fall of 1921. However, the last state of the man could not have been worse than the first.

Living at home, he naturally applied himself assiduously to his studies—never being out more than eight nights in a week. "Bob" is very popular, especially with his old, or should we say 'young." high school lady friends. Tho' he leaves Bethlehem this fall, we are sure that the railroad companies will be enriched by his frequent week-end visits to dear old "Beslem."

Very early in life this promising youth evinced a desire to emulate Chief Justice Taft, but decided first of all to attend a real he-man's school before passing on to a Johnnie (Harvard). The natural result was the first Freshman from Mahanoy City to enroll in the Business Dep't. at Lehigh. His college career has been remarkably free from conferences with Deans, Professors etc., and he has yet to experience the great pleasure of receiving a neatly worded "valentine."

Lehigh has accomplished wonders with this youth, but two things she has been unable to do firstly, his well-known aversion to women has not been weakened; soldly, the can not, after three and onehalf years, trip the light fantastic.

He prepared for college at Bethlehem Prep., and after two well-spent years at Villa Nova, decided to look over the ground at Penn for a year. But the lure of good old Lehigh was too strong to resist, so he wisely chose her to apply the finishing touches to an education which will some day send him to great heights in his chosen profession—Law, but not until he has explored every nook and corner of this grand old Universe!

Besides this Mac has performed nobly in the band for four years, and this year it had a handsome new drum major. We firmly believe the team's success was largely due to the shining apparition that led the band into the stadium.

Our "Mac" is a nice boy with periodic exceptions in Bethlehem. But when "Eddie McKee" gets away from the sheltering arms of the college, various members of the fair sex have been known to seek his society.

But with the aid of a little of the well known Irish luck, and the equally well-known Irish grin, we believe he will overcome this handicap, and some day be dishing out jobs to his less fortunate brother chemists.

His popularity among the members of the so-called "weaker sex" is evidenced by the various tinted letters that arrive for him from such places as New Bruns-wick, Bainbridge and elsewhere. We have often wondered how Mac keeps his correspondence straight and avoids addressing Helen as Mary and vice versa.

Besides all this Mac has musical ability. When he isn't emitting musical sounds on the bass horn, bassoon, sax, etc., he is tripping the "light fantastic."

His all-around good fellowship makes Bill welcome wherever he goes. As Mac leaves this collegiate life we wish him the best of luck in the new fields he will seek to conquer.

URRAY METTEN left "The First City of the First State" to enter Lehigh, not because he needed an education but for the purpose of scattering bits of his ready wit and clever remarks in a new territory. This mission he has successfully accomplished. While in Lehigh he has contributed valuable articles to the Brown and White and has in this manner displayed a knowledge of all big league sports. We might add that Murray is a finished writer but we refuse to give the reason why he is finished.

However, as one professor remarked, he is that steady, intelligent type of person who is desirable in any field of activity that he may enter. He is a mighty good fellow and a loyal friend.

After buying his share of the University in the fall of 1921, Rodg. fell among other conscientious students and together they pursued their quests for learning, adventure and Love.

As musical director of the Mustard and Cheese Club, he wields a wicked baton and believe us he car tickle a mean ivory. Every now and then one of these Jersey mosquitoes decides to migrate and that's what our hero did. Finally in September 1923, he joined us here at Lehigh.

Herb is a pretty good student and egg as well, but he makes an awtul lot of commotion, even for his size. Yet, this would be all right if he did it at any godly hour, but we can't wear ear mufts to bed. He always keeps us informed on the condition of athletics at Rutgers, for which we are duly grateful.

Let nothing be said of the first three years except that he picked up the cognomen of "Dizzy," and sometimes is affectionately called "Dizz". This alone is sufficient to explain his actions during the hunting season. Let it also be known that his favorite drink is malted milk which explains his allegiance to a certain "only one." Don't be misled by his picture, for the photographer made the fur; at least he produced most of it. No, he's not lame. That's just his collegiate gait. As to his ambitions for the future, we all hate to see his manly beauty and charm wasted on the wild coast of Hawaii where the natives wear shredded wheat.

Between the efforts of the ever vigilant sophomores and the wiles of the Bethle-hem women, "Ken" was turned out a worldly-wise and arrogant second year man. When but a frosh, Buck gave as his reason for taking up Mining Engineering the fact that he had never seen a mine. Since then he has had much experience in mines, or similar places, for example—? but in spite of that he still clings to his original determination.

He is always cheerful, willing to help, and so well-known and popular that it is taken for granted that when some lucky company signs him up, there will be a stampede for that company's stock.

Among other peculiar things, day dreaming is Jerry's forte. While on a field geology trip one day, he fell asleep and was dreaming of the popular ditty "When the rocks come tumbling down," when suddenly, he was awakened by the antics of Harry Su who was playingly tossing the biggest boulders that he could find at him. How many of these steeds, of ancient vintage, trusty and otherwise, have been in his possession, no one knows. But usually the "good old Mayflower" can be found in Bethlehem or the neighboring environs.

Tradition has it that Hugh came north with two principal ideas in mind. First, to be a civil engineer and secondly to continue to be a woman hater. We are obliged to grant him his first tenet but as for the second, we have our doubts. It is understood that one person has been able to offset the good intentions of our southerner, and that he has fallen from the high ideal of a woman hater to that of the sheik. Upon graduation, Hugh intends making his home in Florida, where he will enter the real estate business and combine his engineering skill and salesmanship ability to the furtherance of his business endeavors.

be worth the paper they are printed on. The Dean will have to engage in parttime outside employment.

Does everyone have a mental picture of the subject now? Can you not see the bended figure poring over an open book in the flickering light? Do you see the hands of the weatherbeaten clock under the bed 1:30 A. M.? It is our Felix with the latest edition of Snappy Stories.

EN hails from Boston, and after one year in our midst, decided to patronize home industry to the extent of transferring to M. I. T. for a year. At home, he missed the haunts and the great open spaces, so a year was enough to kill his civic pride and he returned to the fold, worldly wise but full of ambition.

His ambitions have been realizedthe goal has been reached and Ken stands now before the portals of the cruel, cold world. We do not worry about his future, as success should come easy and soon to Ken. Industrious, fair and square and possessing a fine personality he should go far. In closing we are losing a good classmate and a friend, but he takes with him the good wishes of all.

RANK came to college to learn to be a business man. What he has learned about the subjects in his course, we are not prepared to say, but his "Extra-Curriculum" work is somebody to be proud of. Just a look at the list above is convincing enough.

There are quite a few that are not listed however and so we had better mention them here. For instance, he is a past master at the dance, having studied the art in several of the local institutions as well as other places. He has a keen sense of humor and wit to spare; all the accomplishments that belong to a gentleman. Last year at this time his prospects were bright, but now he is almost ready to sign up for life.

HARRY FANG PIU SU

Amoy, China "Susie"

E.M.

T took Harry a term to be noticed. When we first saw him he resembled closely the usual conscientious, self-effacing Chinese student. But we soon discovered that here was something different. In one term his marks showed that Harry was not the boy to worry about high grades, and so we began to take him seriously. Whereupon he opened his heart to us, perhaps a little too fully at first, but later on a firmer understanding. One surprise followed another, until at last we found Harry's one difficulty—his English vocabulary much improved, and he could crack wise with the best of us.

By his Sophomore year he was established around college. When his junior year came he was in demand at many college functions. And now in his senior year he can look back on a well-spent college

ROBERT SAYRE TAYLOR

Bethlehem, Pa.

"Speed" "Boh"

B.A.; Freshman Banquet Committee; Cotillion Dance Committee; Chairman, Junior Prom. Committee; Club de Quinze; B. U. X.; Kappa Beta Phi; Psi Upsilon.

WENTY odd years ago, the stork was carrying an heir to some prominent family in New York, London, or Paris when a storm caused him to make a forced landing in Bethlehem, which accounts for the fact that "our Bob" is a native Bethlehemite. At sixteen the family sent him to Choate, whence he emerged without a single trace of Pennsylvania Dutch atmosphere, and then he settled down to a life at Lehigh that would make a French professional wine sampler blush. From his activities one can see he sought the waxed floor much more than the front line benches but he managed to secure not only a standard college education but also managed to assimilate some of the knowledge dispensed by the Profs. How such a youth managed to play the dual role of Plato and Ward McAllister is a mystery.

THOMAS FREDERIC TAYLOR

Easton, Pa.

"Tom"

"Deacon"

C.E.

OMMY needs no introduction, as he is well known about the Campus. He is another of those low down Civils and as such, his reputation could not be examined too critically.

He carries a good "line" and a broad smile, which have set many a feminine heart a-flutter but thus far Tommy has proven invulnerable. His proficiency on the dance floor is the result of constant and conscientious effort. It is a delight to the eye.

Aside from being a course crabber he is a quite likeable chap, he takes a good riding, and comes back smiling. His favorite indoor sport is "cutting up" and he points with pride to his many tonsorial masterpieces decking the Campus.

We are letting out a close secret in releasing the "Frederic" which has been kept under cover for four years. "The Dirt is Out."

AVING been born and reared in Bethlehem, Clarke naturally looked forward to entering Lehigh and becoming an engi-

Lehigh and becoming neer, but when he was all ready neer, but when he was all ready to sign up, he either took a philosophical turn or became "high hat" and decided to become a minister. Though he has all the qualifications, those who know him best whisper that at times he can be as smokin', chewin', drinkin', and cussin' a cuss as any engineer on the Campus, and knows as many traveling salesman stories. However, the rest of us can't vouch for that, but we can for his cheery smile and "Hello."

He likes things military so well that for a while we expected him to wear a Sam-Brown rather than a stole; and a pacifist is sure to get a rise out of him.

at large, and to firmly convince himself as to just what profession suited him. this time, "Fritz" was considering the Ministry as a vocation. Having firmly convinced himself after a year's experience in the world that "Sky-Piloting" was his chosen profession, he established himself in Leonard Hall and continued his course at Lehigh.

ETHLEHEM has always been termed, "The Haven of Music" but never did she receive a greater asset than when Willard enrolled at Lehigh in Septem-ber, 1921. "Allah" is indeed versatile for he plays violin, sax, cello, alto horn and cornet, not to mention the fact that he was a member of the famous Bach Choir. He says his "Heimat" is Warren, Penna., and that his aim is to become the town physician.

"Allah" has been quite studious during the past four years in spite of the fact that he has a natural weakness for week-end trips. It was on one of these trips that he recieved the name "Allah." Why, we do not know, but we suppose that it was due, perhaps, to his magical and oriental attitude on that particular occasion.

HIS sprightly youth came to us from the famed city of Bridgeport, Conn., the home of the boiler makers and brass cannon.

Despite these draw backs his youth was not stunted and Walt has grown high, and flowered in the protected circle of his friends. There are few on the Campus who are not familiar with this shining face and its fragrant cloud of tobacco smoke.

As a Freshman he developed a weakness for strong pipes, a failing he never con-quered. But even this could not keep him down and in the midst of the Sopho-more tribulations Walt rose over the bar as a high-jumper. During his Junior sojourn he developed a tendency for studying and showed some mean ability as a student. A rumor from an untraceable source say he still stays up nights studying but in that part of town called the North Side.

Erwin's admission credits were insufficient. This allowed Van to go back to Toms River High School and play another year of football. Then the following year he came back to Lehigh as one of the class of 1925. We are mighty glad to have had him.

His first two years were spent in Section C., in the days when the Dorms were a law unto themselves. There is an unofficial record of ten tea-parties in fourteen days and doubtless Van as a Sophomore showed his good training as a freshman. As for this matter we would rather not commit ourselves.

He spent his first summer with the R.O.T.C. at Edgewood Arsenal. The second two were spent testing boilers at Hazelton. This last fact suggests that he has been a loyal member of the Mechanical Engineering course.

HOULD Lehigh have a debating team, our choice for captain would be John B. Verlenden, the hero of this tale. As an arguer we have failed to make arguer we have failed to meet his equal. Many of the C. E. Professors have been on the short end of such an engagement, altho they always received the newspaper decision.

John was born and reared in Darby, a small mining (not coal) town of Southern Pennsylvania. At a very tender age, he was seen one day tipping his hat to a lady; whereupon his Father said, "Ah, he will be a Civil Engineer."

He has a new theory on the relation of marks, as compared with the alphabetical arrangement of the students' names. It would not surprise us a bit if some time in the future, students will be studying the age of Verlendenism, as compared with that of Aristotle.

After a year or so of practice he turned into one of the ghostly 8 o'clock hurricanes, who in their mad race for knowledge and a class to sleep in, are seen dimly in a cloud of dust.

Ken's affairs of the heart are now restricted to a bundle of scrap iron known familiarly as Leaping Lena, and he often bears that automotive aroma peculiar to garage mechanics after a mean session with this Lizzie.

Lehigh will soon lose this man who will relish any little pastime from cold-forging guncotton to navigating more or less Fords across the new bridge in a full sea of cops. The world will gain, for such demons are in great demand.

"Really, is Mr. Washburn so strikingly handsome?" "Well, we don't know, but judging from the number of young ladies he has charmed (Bishopthorpe & Lasell) we would say that he has a knack of getting away with the "weaker sex". Probably that also accounts for his ability as a wrestler.

Now that he has been taken into Alpha Kappa Psi, he has been giving Custard a hot race for his job. With such a fertile brain, together with his work as coach, he is sure to win out in the long run for success in this old world.

Albert entered Lehigh to study Electrical Engineering but finding the Mining Lab., and the stories of Harry Fretz more alluring, he turned to the more ancient art of mining.

As a Freshman, "Bunk" suffered patiently under the tortures of the Sophomores of Taylor Hall. His greatest accomplishment for that year was a vocal selection, rendered at a midnight "Tea Party," entitled "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." A mouth full of the properties of the shaving soap and the applications of the Sophomores served to make "Bunk" famous.

After passing by the many pitfalls which lie in the paths of knowledge Albert graduates among the pride of the miners.

We hate to play the woman and tell secrets but Baltimore is Barney's greatest attraction. We know, because we've seen the photographs on his chiffonier. There's Tommy and "Billie" and Jerry, all schooling in Baltimore, and incidently, the envied recipients of Barney's interests.

He expects to go to China after graduation as we have gleaned from an evening's conversation with him, which reminds us that an evening in conversation with Barney is a rare treat. His thoughts are many and varied and make him a success as a Chemical Engineer.

O be born in Bethlehem, raised on a Vermont farm and educated at Bethlehem Prep is quite a handicap with which to start life. However, neglecting all such misfortunes, Larry came to Lehigh after a varied career, which included three years in the war, and took up engineering. Contrary to the public opinion of Vermont farmers, as portrayed by Coolidge, Lap is not gifted with that great silence. However, he is probably as great a politician, and even leads us to believe that he is on such terms of friend-ship with our President as to call him "Cal."

He affiliated himself with the Bell Tele-phone Company at Harrisburg and in several years was making experimental tests on the apparatus of the Company.

Seeing that he could get further along Seeing that he could get further along in the Company with a college education, "Lute" came to Lehigh to absorb some knowledge in his line. While at Lehigh "Lute" has been a "plugger" and although he can not be said to be brilliant, he has never said "die," and it is this true spirit of Lehigh fight, which has kept him here through his four years.

Opinions

HE Senior Class Book Committee, following a custom begun by Asa back in the "good old days", has compiled some extremely interesting data from the questionnaires which were made out by the members of our noble Class. To say the least, the Class of 1925 is, without doubt, a very versatile one. This may not be noticed by the average person, but in reading over the material presented the committee was satisfactorily impressed. To prove this, we can show that the Opinions section went to press late because we had such limited space and so many "wise cracks" were handed in. It took us 'just years' as the present day female says, to decide which summed up the situation best, and like the Literary Digest, we have tried to express the different points of view on the subject matter. Thus, we deny all responsibility for anything repeated in the Opinions, for we have only tried to express as nearly as possible, the sentiments of the Class.

"THERE ARE TWO KINDS OF GOOD-use your own judgment" is Bill Fullard's answer when asked what he thinks of last year's Frosh and their rivals before and after. At any rate, they are "a bunch of wet smacks" on the whole, according to Rus Lee, and we feel sorry for the poor unfortunates who just missed out for 1925. Gene Saxton thinks there is some hope for the other classes although he admits that "they have a long way to go." Bugs Barton puts it pretty strongly when he says they are "the ruination of the institution." However, we believe that our class has put our "Alma Mater" on a pretty firm basis which should enable it to "carry on."

"HOTTEST YET"

is our opinion of the class of 1925, as Banker Rice expresses it. Johnie Craig must think the same for he claims it is the "Best that ever wrestled at the Colly," and that is saying something when we know that Asa tripped the light fantastic at that institution. Gene Moran brings forth the point that it is "the making of Lehigh." He means "Greater Lehigh," of course, for we leave it with such aspirations. However, Art Gruhn has the "cold dope" when he claims it is the "advance addition of the 1940 Who's Who." We just hope to shout.

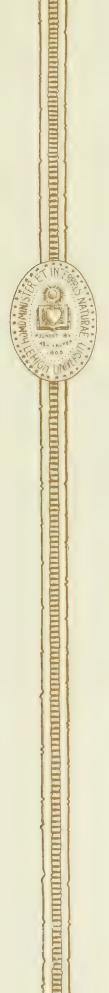

W 1926 TP

"GOOD AND WET"

is Blake's remark on the Class Banquets. However, we rather agree with Rankin who claims, "they are not what they 'usta' be," with Whitey Wardell's additional remark "back in the good old days." Ayres notes that "they are merely an excuse for getting—together." This is but a thing of the past.

"AN UNNECESSARY EVIL"

is the title given the Dean by Poss Greer. Thus, it might be a good idea if we should "give him to Lafayette" as McKee suggests. Mike Callow, however, swears he has "done a lot for Lehigh" but we can't quite figure this after seeing our Class President "fall by the wayside." However, for those who follow in our footsteps we hope Fernandez knows his "oats" when he chimes in "he ain't gonna 'reign' no mo—.

"A GREAT MAN"

"in his own estimation" is the idea Bud Sholes has of his course professor. Lawall, in flowery language calls his a "perfect Prince" which is satisfactory to us as long as no one brings "fairies" into the tale. Many refuse to commit themselves at this time, but as we can't reserve room for late comers—such things had better be left unsaid.

"WHERE DID LAFAYETTE GET THE HORSE SHOE?"

is the most important question omitted in Mayberry's estimation. The committee thought that by this means we could get a great amount of information hard to obtain. It is going to be a task to answer the multiplicity of questions so we hope everyone will show the greatest of patience with the committee.

Many asked "why is Drown Hall a fine place for 'Arcadia' meetings?" Then, too, there are several questions that we refuse to answer, as "how to succeed though educated" as Pud Mattern suggests or "what is the matter with the Class Book committee.'

"A GOOD BULL SESSION"

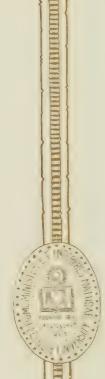

is Saxtan's opinion of the Interfraternity Council. Leib pulls a wise one by calling it a place where "Greek meets Greek," while Trumbore intimates it's a good place to gossip when he says "it runs tea-dances without tea or music." Bokum thinks the members get "great training for politics," and the fact that they draw-up a new set of rushing rules per annum, proves this.

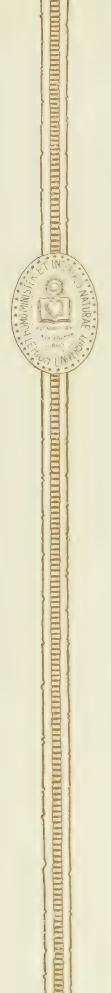

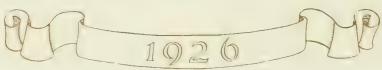

"TOO SHORT"

is Polatchek's opinion of vacations. Some, including Steve Groner, would be satisfied if the "Easter vacation were longer." McKee, however, claims the present system is "50% efficient", although this seems much too high. Lap Williams, who does not have to think about vacations because of the fact that "friend wife" helps him to "while away his time", questions, "is there any system about our vacations?" And looking at the idea from another angle as Jim Davis does we see that it is a noble system to the extent that it "gives the Bethlehem 'beauties' a rest." However, as we know that Jim is a Democrat and no other than a nephew of the famous John W., we can understand his point of view.

"SUBJECT TOO DRY TO BE DISCUSSED"

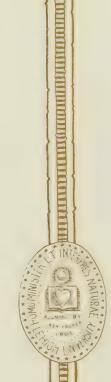

is what Shoemaker thinks about the Eighteenth Amendment. Blake records it as "a wise move by the bootleggers", and our friend from China, Harry Su, believes, as does the Dean, that it is incomplete. We were more than shocked at the number in our class who asked, as Rod Ross did, "if such an amendment was ever thought of—." As a true philosopher, however, Stoggy Stahl, expounded bitterly "the bluer the law, the redder the lights." But, realizing that he comes from New Jersey's capital, it is to see that he must have been influenced by the "school of Edward I. Edwards." Nuf Sed!

"A RIPPING GOOD TIME"

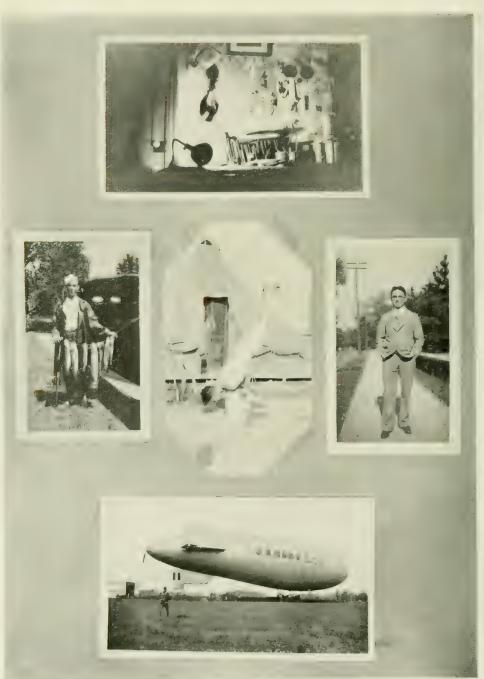

is Allen's estimate of Founder's Day-However, the sports should be held on "September Morn" according to Gondos, and we wonder why? Levitz regrettingly says that it is "the only excitement that the Dean didn't take from us," while Astarita looks to the day as "inspection day for the Bethlehem girls." It certainly is a "good way to dispose of old clothes" as Leib points out, and Adams claims it "makes Abe Rosen smile." Binkley sums up the question mathematically as follows: "(Sophs plus Frosh) times 'fights' equals scraps of clothes."

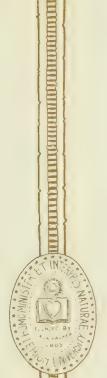

W 1926 M

"WOOF! WOOF!"

opines E. E. Brown, E. E. on smokers and Clark Trumbore agrees. The Secretary of the Swiss Navy, Gene Moran, says they are getting "pepless" while Bliss Austin, the "Comical Engineer" calls them "emotional jags." Who is right? We bite. Henny Greene howls for the mob when he says that smokers are "the cradle of Lehigh Pep." Wally Reid lets slip a sugar-coated truth when he adds significantly, "Hard on the lungs."

"MAN THE PUMPS"

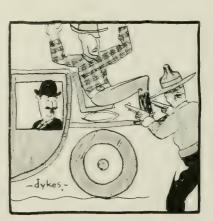

comes from the lips of Ken Wallace when quizzed about the Lafayette Stadium. Responding to an inquiry on the delicate subject, Tyler asks, "Is your life insured?" "It fell down in my estimation," says Bill Williams quoting a timely nifty from Methuselah. "Might have one by the millenium," blinks the wise owl, Jimmy Law, to which all agree and roar noisily.

"JUST BEYOND THE RIVER STYX"

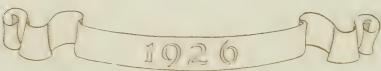

explodes Charlie Brooks when "Beslem" is mentioned. "Good for night workers," says Paul Entrekin to which Chuck Dinkey adds his hearty approval. Bill McMorris is quoted as saying that "Asa picked a hell of a town." Following this Duck Howland crashes through with another nifty when he says it is mostly "Souse Side." Ken Batz nominates himself for the diplomatic corps when he says, complacently, "Well, Lehigh's here."

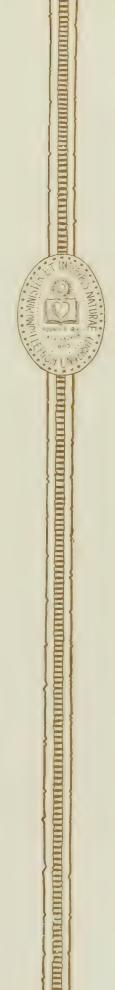

"HIGHWAY ROBBERY"

is the term Al Bayles applies to the hotel. (Bethlehem, of course) John McKee seconds the motion in less polite language. Doug. Parker says the Bethlehem is "a good place at which to spend Saturday evening." Les Wolcott is very emphatic in saying that it is "an ideal place at which to spend money." "Even better than that," soliloquizes Luke Wurster, "if they see you coming."

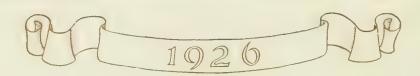

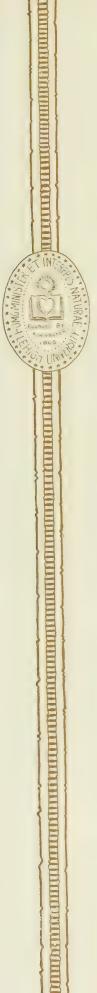

"CATCHING THE LAST CAR FROM THE WEST SIDE"

is the stunt that Larry Kingham chalks down as his greatest achievement at Mr. Lehigh's institution. John Verlenden seems to think that "staying four years" is his greatest stunt. Chick Holzshu says his is "not missing a class for a whole week." Pete Nicola crashes through when he says he does not "remember their names." To Bob McFate goes the brown derby. He out-argued Ashbaugh.

"ASK THE DEAN HE KNOWS"

why men leave college. This "dope" is dropped by Bunk Weissenborn and has many points in its favor. Harry Su says "moonshine has much to do with the winter and summer migrations." Bob Seeley would explain the grim fact with "too much smacking and hours lacking." The wise gent, Cowboy Weston, says the reason is "so that they won't be thrown out," and to him goes the olive wreath.

"THE DEAN"

is where Clark would start on his reform rampage. "The heads of the departments should get the axe," says Bill Bokum. George Moritz thinks Lehigh would be more endurable if the Physics Department was reformed while the less conservative "Minnie" Minster includes the whole faculty and student body. Ken Batz, the sleuth, who said, "Everything," missed nothing.

"YOU'D BE SURPRISED"

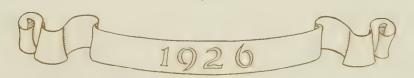

is the choice morsel that escapes the lips of Dixie Walker when asked the worse thing he has done at Lehigh. Berger yows that his perfidy is "laughing at the Prof's jokes." Studied too hard" is the answer of Johnnie Burton, at which a lusty roar lasting half an hour is chortled by two hundred throats. Bill Fullard voices the sentiments of the aforesaid two hundred when he waives the question with "Don't get personal."

"TOOTING FOR LEHIGH"

is Stogie Stahl's tribute to the band. "They do wear snappy uniforms," flows from Borda's pen. Galloping Gondos in an attempt to crack wise coos "Rubber." Tributes range from "fine" by Dudley to "deserving of all possible praise" by Bud Orr. Sam Senior puffs up with satisfaction and says, "they surely put it over on the Princeton Band a few months ago.

A EPITOME JA

"A VERY GOOD BODY"

says Lawall in speaking of the Varsity Club. Jack Coulton thinks he was speaking of some "fem." and adds his ditto. George Finegan waxes eloquent and from his silver tongue is heard, A worthy recognition of our heroes." Whitey Wardell wants to know where it is. Bob Adams pours out a neat pun and says, "It's an L of a bunch. So say we all.

"STEPS"

is Freddy Dorton's timely reply when asked what hindrance should be removed from our Alma Mater to make it a collegiate Elysium. Fred knows his steps. Eight o'clocks prevent Joe Gyourko from enjoying life. Jim Croll wants to jack up the "gym" and let the rest of the school flow by. Bill Drury doesn't stop at eight o'clocks. All classes should go and Joe Ricapito thinks there should be a continual bull session.

"DRY"

is Bus Keating's apropos comment on the Brown and White, the college Oracle. "Can't be beaten," says Fred Berg but we bet a cookie he is on the staff. Johnny Waltman's crack is that any fault lies with the subscribers. How much is the editor "greasing" you, Johnny? "Mediocre" is Polatchek's laconic reply to the Burr question. "Swill," chuckles Earl Kirchner getting a greater kick from the wise crack than from the magazine. We end up with Leo Krazinski's nifty that Burro is Hot Dog's nearest competitor.

"DROWN HIM"

That's what Harry Siegmund would do to his worst enemy. R. H. Miller would give him a drink (wood alcohol). Stogie Stahl's idea of the supreme is to send him to Lafayette. George Paxton would try to reform him. To accomplish this Charlie Brooks would give him four years under Larkin if he could stand it. Bob MacFate would seal his fate by having him taste some home brew.

Conclusion

T is with a sigh of relief that we finish this, our last memorable page, and we imagine, kind readers, that your views are the same. However, we have done our best to satisfy and amuse you, but the success of our efforts remains to be seen. This work has been compiled only after much strenuous labor was expended, and untold trials and tribulations met. We sincerely hope everyone has succeeded in wading thru the foregoing portrayal of our most illustrious class, but if you haven't, we can hardly blame you. If you have enjoyed this, let us know; but if the case may be otherwise—well, keep it quiet and it will make us all feel better.

The Senior Class Book Committee desires to take this opportunity to thank the class for its cooperation in the compiling of this ponderous data. We also acknowledge our indebtedness to Bill MacCaa, our photographer; The Canton Engraving Company, our engravers; The Murdoch-Kerr Press, our printers; our Junior associates for their invaluable help in the undertaking; and last but far from least, Vic Dykes for the humorous sketches for which he is responsible.

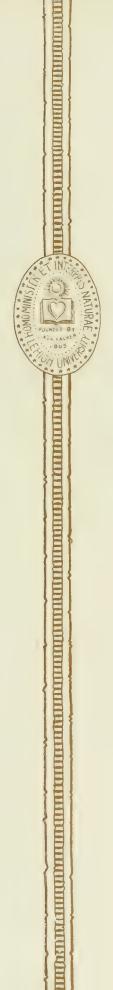

It is to be regretted that there are not several more volumes of this book, because then we would be in a far better position to tell the world the true value of our class—otherwise no one may discover it. But the gods willed it otherwise, so we must be content with this condensed edition. We hope that in future years these few pages will bring back fond memories of our four stirring years of college life.

History

GGRESSIVENESS! PERSE-VERANCE! SACRIFICE! As a result, progress! Ultimately, SUCCESS! Those are the terms that are so very fitting in regard to the Class of Nineteen Twenty-six. Three years ago, when we entered the portals of this University, and assumed the responsibilities of college men, there was an abundance of material of every genus afforded our Alma Mater in a plastic form with which she might work and finally mold into a pattern of culture and intellectuality. Her work has yet to be completed as the fourth lap of this higher-learning race remains to be run.

Men, staunch and rugged, bold and brave, hardy and healthy, wise and wistful, are among our number and each is doing his share in the great upbuilding of human society. Class scraps, class banquets, and class rivalry have all shared in our training. With it all comes the principle that should be stressed with great zeal—UNITY—for without the cooperation of everyone, there would be no success as college men and the aftermath in store for all would play havoc with those not aware of the advantages of this great UNITY.

So it goes in the college world, and though our history be short at present, someone undertaking the task fifteen years hence, will find many covetable and reputable accomplishments performed by the classmates of '26.

History

NE year has passed since some three hundred verdant young hopefuls entered the portals of our beloved Alma Mater. This group of young hopefuls constituted the Class of 1927. We were soon introduced to the customs and traditions of this institution by a very vigilant sophomore class. We learned very quickly, and before long had a fairly strong organization. This was soon evidenced in the fact that we won the Founders' Day Sports and were thereby entitled to dress like sane human beings on Sundays.

Our first Freshman Dance, held after the second Lafayette Basketball Game last year, was a huge success, as was our banquet. There were very few absentees at the banquet, which also speaks well for the organization of the Class.

A few of our number have fallen by the wayside, but the majority of the Class have survived the ordeals of examinations.

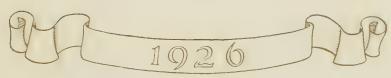

We began our Sophomore Year by very aptly introducing the Class of '28 to the customs and traditions of Lehigh. We were forced to be rather hard on some of them but it was necessary in order to show them their place and to make good Lehigh men out of them.

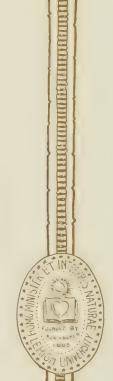

As an example of our ability along social lines, the Sophomore Cotillion this year is pronounced by many as one of the best affairs ever given at Lehigh.

The year's activities are featured perhaps by the formation of a Sophomore Cabinet, primarily for the purpose of creating a finer social atmosphere on the Campus. Deputation work was inaugurated and will be quite in evidence next year. Finally, the return of an old traditional event, Calculus Cremation, brings further credit to our class.

Freshmen

ESMOND J. AVERY

History

HE Freshman class, aside from being the largest to have ever registered in the University, has earned for itself the distinction of being a progressive and wide-awake body. A glance at our activities thus far offers convincing proof of this.

In athletics, due to the ruling now in effect, the Freshmen have competed separately in every sport. Our ability in these lines can be shown at once by recalling the fact that we won the majority of the Founders' Day Sports and thereby attained the hoped-for privilege of discarding the "ink-spots" on Sunday. In football, wrestling and swimming our teams have been especially successful and prospects for varsity berths next year seem to be good in all of these sports. Judging from the number of candidates already out for Baseball, Track, and Lacrosse, our chances here seem to be fine, and a prosperous season is expected by all.

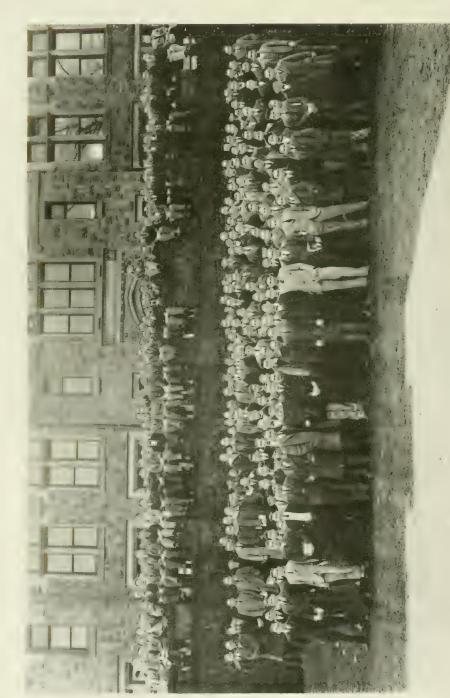

An innovation at Lehigh, in the form of a Freshman Cabinet, was introduced this year. Under its guidance the Class has carried out a social programme such as never attempted before. To date, two smokers and a tea dance are our proud achievements. The big events of the year are still in store for us, however. We are planning a dance to be held in April, which, in the minds of all Freshmen, is going to be the affair DeLuxe and certainly the biggest thing which we will put over this year.

With these things in mind we are looking forward to our Banquet with great hopes, and we are sure that in the years to come, the Class of '28 will live up to the ideals which it has set for itself and carry on the work so well begun.

LEHIGH FOOTBALL COACHING STAFF

CAPTAIN WILLIAM C. GREER

Fullback

STURDY and much-respected leader. "Poss", as he is known to his team and to the student body, missed but one Varsity game in his four years on the gridiron for the Brown and White. A sterling man on the defense and always to be relied upon if a yard or two were needed for a first down or score. In fact, one of the best backs who ever wore the Brown and White.

MANAGER J. PORTER LANGFITT

MAN of true and inherent managerial ability. He handled the business affairs of the team in a very satisfactory and efficient manner. Both at home and on the road he handled the managerial reins without a hitch.

HOWARD E. MERRILL

Tackle

APTAIN-ELECT of next year's team and fully deserving of the faith put in him by his teammates. Seldom did the opponents' backs make much headway through his side of the line. He is looking forward to his greatest year next season. He hopes to be able to lead the Brown and White to victory against Lafayette. "Howdy" is a product of Mercersburg Academy and had little trouble making a Varsity berth from the start. During his first two seasons, however, he was handicapped by injuries, but this year he saw continual service.

EDMUND V. BURKE

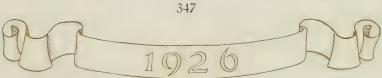

End

ED", as he is familiarly known, was one of the principal reasons for the success of Lehigh's forward passes this year. It seemed that regardless of how many opponents there were surrounding him, he invariably would nab the oval. This was his last and undoubtedly his greatest year on the gridiron and it will be a very difficult matter to fill his shoes next year. Not only a sterling end but also a punter of no mean ability.

WILLIAM J. HOFFMAN

Guard

ILL'S" one ambition was to play against Johnny Budd of Lafayette fame. Last year he was all set for it when he received a broken jaw in the game before the "classic." In spite of being compelled to wear a brace on his jaw this year he more than held his own against the Maroon giant and received All-American mention from several sources. When he received the severe injury to his jaw in 1923 there were few who thought that he would ever participate in the gridiron sport again. showed that people did not know Bill or they would not have thought that way, because he played his usual strong game this year regardless of the handicap.

ROBERT LEWIS

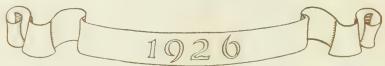

Guard

EHIGH had one of the strongest lines in many years this season and "Bob" was one of the principal reasons. When the opposition tried a play through him it usually left them with one less down in the same position from where they started. This was Bob's Senior year and it will be no easy task to find a man to take his place next year. He and his partner pictured above had a great habit of spoiling what was meant to be a perfectly good kick on the part of the opposing punter.

WILLIAM H. WALKER

OR three years a substitute, "Dixie" blossomed forth in this, his fourth year, and played in a majority of the games. Seldom is there seen a harder working man than Dixie and he fully deserved the position which he gained after trying hard for three years. Just as all good ends should, Dixie seems to have an inborn ability for following the ball. The opponents soon found out that a run around his end was no easy thing to accomplish.

MAX LEVITZ

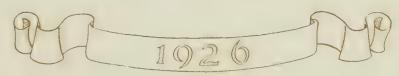

Halfback

TERROR to all opponents when a few yards were needed for a first down or score. A combination of the mass and strength of a steam roller and the speed of an express train, this man was the hardest of backs to stop once he got going. Max is a veritable human battering ram on the gridiron, as the opposing linemen will testify after he has made a few holes in their line. In previous seasons it was often remarked that if Max only had a little more speed he would be one hard man to stop. Well, this year he seemed to develop some speed and the predictions were true.

R. DUNCAN CHEEL

Center

FTER three seasons of faithful work on the scrubs, "Dunc" was the regular Varsity center this year and filled the post in an admirable manner. His quick and accurate passes to the backfield were a big factor in the successful offensive of this season. It is rumored that Dunc will be back in togs next fall. If so, there will be one part of the line that will closely resemble a stone wall, and that is the center.

Quarterback

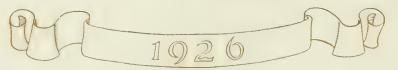

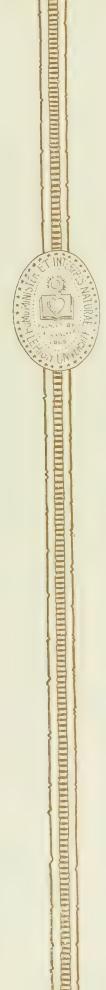

FORMER Mercersburg star who made things hot for the regulars for three years when he directed the scrubs. This year he helped to make it hot for the opponents and proved to be a very capable field general. Light but fast, he seemed to pick out holes in the rivals' defense with ease.

JAMES R. YEAGER

Tackle

ITH still another year to go, great things are looked for from "Jim." In spite of his great weight he can move around with startling rapidity. He first around with startling rapidity. He first broke into the limelight in 1923 when he substituted for Hoffman and since then he has seen action in every game.

HERBERT G. HARMON

Guard

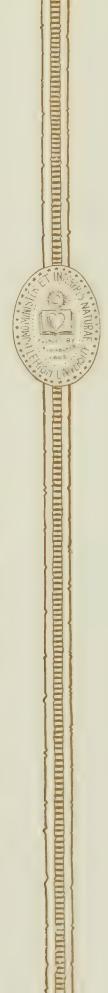

LTHOUGH a swimmer by nature, "Herb" has applied himself so diligently to the gridiron sport that he has become one of the "towers of strength" on the Lehigh line. Many times has he thrown the opponents for a loss when they attempted to pierce his part of the line.

CHARLES M. PRIOR

Quarterback

IME and again have the opponents tried to stop the open field running of "Charlie", but 'twas in vain. On countless occasions he has thrilled the spectators with his sensational runs. Not only a sterling back in this department but also a punter who has the uncanny knack of placing the ball where the opposing backs aren't.

HENRY LEWIN

Quarterback

ONEY" not only proved to be a very capable field general but several times used his toe to score in critical times. One of the best drop-kickers in collegiate ranks and still another year to go. In several games this year he was the deciding factor when the offense could not pierce the rival defense for a touchdown.

FRED J. STEPHENS

Halfback

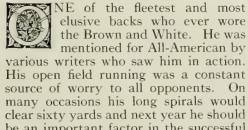

NE of the most reliable backs of the year. His playing was marked by steadiness and consistency and seldom was it necessary to take time out for an injury to him. His good nature went a long way toward keeping the team in good spirits on all occasions.

H. CHARLES HESS

Halfback

His open field running was a constant source of worry to all opponents. On many occasions his long spirals would clear sixty yards and next year he should be an important factor in the successful season to which the Brown and White looks forward.

WILLIAM J. MORGAN

Halfback

Y" could always be depended upon to rip big holes in any defense. Not only was this man a good ball-carrier, but he backed up the line in a very capable manner on the defense. The interference of a rival back meant nothing to "Cy."

A. CHARLES MELLINGER

Halfback

OT" is one of the best all-around players on any gridiron. He can hit the line or run in the open field with equal ability and serves as a constant threat to all opponents. He not only excelled when carrying the ball but served as a vital factor in Lehigh's forward passing game. His swift accurate passes were the cause of many long gains. On the defense he has few equals and seldom do opponents gain much on his side of the line.

WILLIAM CANNON, JR.

only stopping most all plays around his end, but often slipping in and nabbing the runner before he got started, he helped Lehigh to have the strongest defensive ends in collegiate ranks. Often he would be the receiver of a forward, making a seemingly impossible catch.

I. WILLIAM LITTEL, JR.

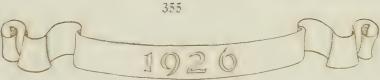

Tackle

LTHOUGH this was only "Bill's" second year he was first choice to pair off with Merrill to form the regular Varsity tackles. He was handicapped his first year by injury, but was able to show his true ability this year and next year he should be one of Lehigh's best bets on the defense.

JOHN B. HAYES

Halfback

ACK" is the type of back who worries opponents because he can carry the ball through center as well as around the end. He also shines forth in his ability to catch passes, and many times during the season he got away for long runs after getting under one of these. On the defense he is very dependable because of his ability to diagnose the opposition's plays.

N. DONALD DIETRICH

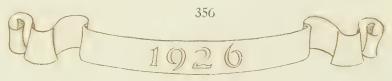

Center

"Don" was handicapped by injuries a large part of the season but in spite of this showed up remarkably well in breaking up opponents' plays whether directed at his part of the line or not. The backs never needed to worry whether the ball would be passed accurately or not when he was in the pivot position, because his passes always were true and snappy.

*A safety in the Muhlenberg Game gave Lehigh two more points.

Resume of the Season

N reviewing the football history of 1924, in particular as it relates to Lehigh, the conviction becomes stronger that the Brown and White had a rather remarkable season, and not one that was a bit discouraging, despite the Lafayette defeat. The ledger is very encouraging, showing three tie games, four victories and but one defeat. This latter is almost sufficient, however, to spoil any season regardless of how remarkable it has been in other respects, because it was at the hands of the Maroon rivals, at Easton.

The schedule was one which was extremely difficult and one in which each week varied from the preceding. Three formidable opponents in addition to Lafayette were given positions on the calendar, namely—Princeton, Rutgers and Holy Cross. The manner in which Lehigh handled these three teams is worthy of praise. As the game with Muhlenberg approached it assumed the proportions of a titanic struggle because the Cardinal and Gray had gained the top-notch position in scoring in the East. A stiff battle was predicted and after the smoke of battle had cleared away it was seen that the forecasts were more accurate than many adherents of the Brown and White were willing to believe.

The season opened on October 4, with an unusually warm day on which to stage the contest. Although Gettysburg was heralded as a brilliant team the Brown and White had little trouble in coming out on the long end of a 12 to 0 score. The superiority of Lehigh was clearly shown by the scoring of twenty-one first downs by the home team. The visitors' much-vaunted attack failed to materialize, in all probability due to the strong defense of the Brown and White.

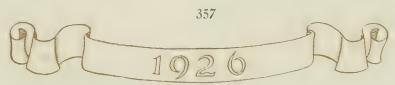

The following week the eyes of the football world were opened to the fact that the team representing the Bethlehem Institution was not to be considered too lightly. This was brought about by the holding of the Princeton Tiger to a scoreless tie. It was no fluke, either, as can easily be verified by reviewing the accounts of the game in the metropolitan newspapers. A Lehigh victory was missed by a hair when Burke stepped over the side-line after he had received the oval on a long pass from Mellinger. Disregarding the foregoing statement the Lehigh Team demonstrated its superiority over the Tiger by registering nine first downs to the latter's five.

A bad result of the Princeton game was evidenced the following week when Lehigh almos met a tartar in Dickinson. Piling up a lead in the first few minutes of play was all that saved the game for the Brown and White. For the greater part of the following three periods the visitors displayed a brand of football much better than that of the South Mountaineers. A spirited rally in the last period was all that saved the game for Lehigh and enabled it to emerge as victor with the score at 15 to 6.

The game with Rutgers on the last Saturday in October is one which will long be remembered by the supporters of both teams. Never did a game more closely resemble a tale of fiction, with a hero. Thrice did Hazel and Benkert, helped to a certain degree by their teammates, gain the advantage for the cohorts from "the Banks of the Raritan." An equal number of times did Lewin, ably assisted by ten other Brown and White warriors, tie the score, each time after valiant uphill fights. It was a real test of brute strength against skill and cunning. After a sixty minute battle, neither side could show any advantage and the battle ended with a 13-13 tie. It was really the most fitting way for the game to end because it can truthfully be said that both teams deserved to win.

As mentioned above, Muhlenberg came to Bethlehem with the idea of upsetting the Brown and White and snatching a victory. The offense which the Allentonians had been preparing especially for this contest failed to materialize, and although they showed strength defensively, their offense was nil. Although registering fifteen first downs the Brown and White had only five points to its credit when the final whistle blew, but this proved to be sufficient because the visitors had no score.

After a long journey to Massachusetts to meet Holy Cross the Lehigh gridmen returned with another tie game on their record. According to accounts both teams were lucky not to lose, and the yardage gained was almost identical for both sides. The accurate toe of "Honey" Lewin again saved the day for Lehigh. What slight advantage there was, was probably in Lehigh's favor since the Brown and White had two more first downs to their credit than did Holy Cross.

The next game was with Villanova, and using mostly second string men the Brown and White scored a 14 to 7 victory. It was the first real football day of the year and although the visitors were determined to surprise Lehigh, the reserves had little trouble in winning. The visitors' score was the result of a fumble. This was the first game in his career that "Poss" Greer did not participate in the action.

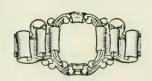

The big struggle took place on the following week "down the river." If ever a gridiron resembled a marsh the field at Easton certainly did. This was the first game of the year which had not been played on a dry field and the carefully-prepared aerial attack of the Brown and White was practically useless. Receiving the ball slightly in their own territory the Maroon swept fifty yards down the field for a touchdown and together with the point following, this was the only score of the game. Twice did Lehigh pierce the Maroon defense to within the five yard line but each time was unable to put the pigskin over. The first time was early in the game when Burke scooped up a fumble and raced to within five yards of the last chalk-mark, but at this point was forced outside. Although it was first down with but four yards to go, the Maroon defense held like a stone wall and Lehigh lost the ball on downs. In the waning moments of the game Lehigh had the ball on the three yard line with first down as the result of a beautiful pass by Mellinger to Burke. A fumble and a misunderstanding of signals followed and Lehigh's last chance had passed away. It was then only a matter of time until the end of the game because both teams were spent in offensive power.

This marked the end of "Jim" Baldwin's regime as football mentor at Lehigh, and thanks to his untiring efforts, it was a very successful one. Jim worked hard during his three seasons with the Brown and White and deserves credit for developing fighting teams that upheld the good reputation of the Brown and White on the gridiron. This last year was probably his most successful although the 1923 record was not far behind. He leaves Lehigh with the best wishes of all who worked under him and they all hope he may be as successful at the next institution where he takes over the reins.

MANAGER DEGNAN

Review of the Scason

THE 1924 season was probably one of the most successful seasons in the history of baseball at the South Mountain Institution, when it is taken into consideration that several of the strongest teams in the East were on the schedule. The final analysis showed Lehigh on the winning side ten times and on the opposite side but five times. Five games were called off because of rain, namely—Princeton, Ursinus, Gettysburg, Univ. of Virginia and Pittsburgh. Most cherished of the victories were the two of the three game series with the Maroon Rival. This was the first time in five seasons that Lehigh had emerged victorious in this series.

There was but one extra inning game and that was the final tilt with Bucknell on Alumni Day, in which the home team won, 6 to 4. On the southern trip Lehigh won two of the three games played, losing the opener to Penn and then winning close victories over Maryland and Washington and Lee on successive days.

Two of the five defeats were lost by the narrowest margin, one to the City College of New York by a 7-6 score and the other to Fordham, 3 to 2. In the latter game Lehigh had tied the score in the eighth with one out and had the bases loaded when the game was called on account of rain. The Lehigh-Lafayette games stood as the most prominent. The first meeting of the rival was on March Field where "Pete" DuBois turned in the first victory, allowing the Eastonians only five hits. The next week DuBois again faced the Maroon batters but this time they turned the tables and won by an 8 to 2 score. Walker replaced DuBois in the latter part of the game.

In the final game of the series, played on Taylor Field, Bob Adams easily held the foe in check while he and his teammates were piling up a big lead. Rain fell_intermittently throughout the game and this seemed to cause the visitors considerable trouble. The final score was 10 to 1 and Lafayette had failed to get a man past second base until the final inning, when Berry saved his team from a shutout by lacing the ball over the fence for a home run.

Throughout the season DuBois and Captain Adams did most of the hurling, with Walker doing relief work. The latter burst forth into the limelight when he knocked the pill over the fence for a home run in the eleventh inning of the Bucknell game, with a pal on the bases, thus giving Lehigh a two-run victory over the Lewisburg Collegians.

Reviel of the Season

HERE remains but a memory of Lehigh's 1924-25 basketball season, but it is a rather pleasing memory because the majority of the games were won. A final summary shows the Brown and White on the winning side in 11 contests and on the wrong side but four times. The one regrettable feature is that the series with the Maroon remained in a deadlock, both teams winning one tussle. The first defeat of the season was in the second game, which was with Princeton, and after that Lehigh rang up nine straight wins, many of them on foreign floors. With the exception of Lafayette, the other rivals were disposed of in a very satisfactory manner. Rutgers was beaten in both contests and Muhlenberg lost a close game on the home court. The excellent record of the quintet was largely the result of team-work and not due to the outstanding performance of any individual star. The individual scoring records show that the points were fairly evenly distributed, although Smith was high scorer. Captain Hess was forced to remain on the sidelines part of the time on account of injury, but C. Schaub proved himself to be a capable substitute.

As is usual, the season opened with Moravian and this game served as an excellent warmingup contest for the Brown and White. The next game was with Princeton, the Intercollegiate Champion for this season. Although the score was one-sided the Brown and White was handicapped from lack of practice, and injuries to Hess and Gallagher tended to demoralize the team. The only other game before the Christmas holidays was with Seton Hall and the victory of Lehigh over this quintet inaugurated the string if victories.

In the first game of the new year the Brown and White showed mid-season form in defeating the Canadians from Toronto, outclassing the visitors by the score of 46 to 28. The first game with Rutgers was the next on the list and it was in this contest that Lehigh proved that it was equally as good on a strange court as on the home floor. It is a known fact that it takes a good team to down the Scarlet on its own floor, but Lehigh proved equal to the task. In the middle of the following week the team returned home and completely outclassed Albright by a 62 to 11 score. Rutgers was the next victim. The team from New Brunswick came to Bethlehem determined to atone for the defeat of the previous week, but all their determination was for naught, because, after a tight contest in which close guarding featured, Lehigh won out by the score of 26 to 22.

Muhlenberg showed their usual fight and spirit but a substantial lead in the first part of the game enabled Lehigh to continue its winning streak. A recess in the season was taken at this point because of mid-year examinations. The first game after the resumption of the schedule showed that the team had lost none of their previous form because they downed Swarthmore by a score of 34 to 16. However, at the end of the first half the score was tied, but the Garnet was completely outclassed in the second frame.

The next game was with Bucknell, and here again the score was tied at the end of the initial stanza. It did not remain this way long, however, because the second half had hardly started when Lehigh assumed the lead, never to be headed, although the final score was not what would be termed as exactly one-sided, it being 29 to 20. The next game proved easy when Delaware was snowed under with an avalanche of baskets, the final count being 56-17.

It was here that the Brown and White five struck a disastrous slump and lost to Fordham by a 24 to 37 score. It might be mentioned in passing that Fordham had won thirteen straight games before this contest and had included among its victims several of the leading quintets in the East. The team representing the New York institution was without a doubt one of the smoothest working combinations that had appeared on the floor of Taylor Gymnasium for a long time, and although Lehigh held its own during the first half, the experience of the visitors worked to their advantage in the second half and they slowly drew away from the home team despite the valiant efforts of the latter to stem the tide.

The first game of the Maroon series was played at home, and Lehigh managed to win out by a 30 to 23 score, although the outcome looked very doubtful for a time. The team seemed to have gone stale since the Fordham contest and what had appeared as an easy game earlier in the season turned out to be no cinch for Lehigh, and the players were extended to their utmost to win.

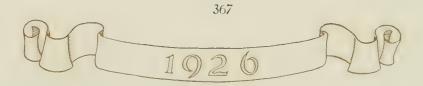

Gettysburg threw a wrench in the gears the next week when they took the Brown and White by surprise and handed them a 41 to 29 reverse. It was proved by this game that Lehigh had gone stale, because later in the week Muhlenberg defeated Gettysburg rather handily and the former had a very much weaker team than they sent against the Brown and White. The final game of the season was played at Easton, and Lafayette showed the best form they had exhibited all season and Lehigh continued in the slump and the final score showed the Maroon on the long end of a 29-19 score. There was talk of a third game but since neither team wanted one the idea was dropped.

Except for the slump at the end of the season, it was probably one of the most successful campaigns ever conducted on the court by the Brown and White.

COACH BALDWIN

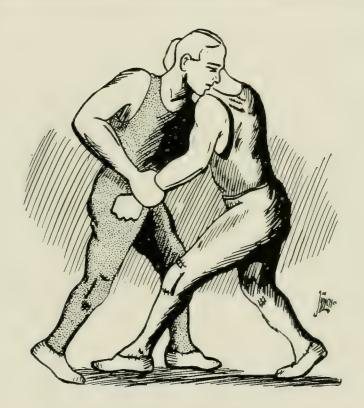

This marked the end of Coach Baldwin's regime in the three foregoing sports. He has met with great success in each one of these. His success on the gridiron has already been mentioned. He was equally successful in baseball and basketball, if not more so. It is with sincere regret that the student body sees him leave the Brown and White Institution. He departs with the best wishes of all for his future, success whether it be in sport or in another line of endeavor.

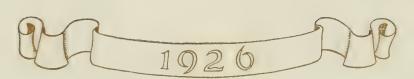

In his second year of coaching in baseball he met with decided success, not only winning twothirds of the games, but winning the series from the Maroon rivals. His last two years in basketball coaching have resulted in two of the best court teams ever representing Lehigh in the indoor game. In 1923-24 the team tasted defeat only twice and only four times during this past season. In the former season Lafayette was beaten in both games and this year the series ended in a tie.

Review of the Season

N the number of meets won and lost during this season the balance is on the right side with four victories and three defeats. All three defeats were at the hands of strong teams, State being Intercollegiate Champion. The Navy always has one of the strongest teams in the wrestling world and it is a rare occasion when they are defeated. The thing that makes this season stand out above any previous one is the winning of third place in the Intercollegiates. This fact becomes more significant when it is taken into consideration that there were eight teams entered instead of seven, as previously

The scores of the Championship meet were as follows: Penn State, 24; Yale, 14; Lehigh, 13; Penn, 8; Columbia, 6; Princeton, 4; Cornell, 3; and Syracuse, 2. It can be seen from the above that Lehigh missed second place by a single point. Best was crowned 125-pound champion and was the dark horse in his class. Before this season he had wrestled in but a few meets and deserves great credit for capturing the championship in virtually his first year of Varsity competition. Lewis placed second in the 135-pound class and Levitz finished second in the unlimited class. This was the first year for the former and he has great prospects for next year. Levitz was defeated for the championship in extra periods but had little trouble in placing second. Williamson and Reed placed third in the 158 and 115 pound classes respectively. With Best, Reed, Lewis and Williamson back next year the prospects for a championship team are very bright.

THE TEAM IN ACTION

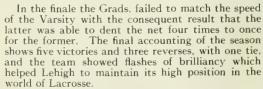

Review of the Season

FTER a late start, due to poor weather conditions, the 1924 campaign got under way with an overwhelming victory over the N. Y. Lacrosse Club. The following week Rutgers was met at New Brunswick, and the game ended in a 3-3 deadlock. The next opponent was the powerful Maryland outfit. After a thrilling battle the Brown and White emerged victorious to the tune of three goals to none for the rivals; even though the latter had defeated the Navy the week previous.

With the fair visitors of house party week-end looking on, Swarthmore went down before the fast moving Lehigh twelve by the score of 4 to 1. The next game was a mid-week affair with Stevens, in which contest Lehigh was taken completely by surprise going down to a 6-5 defeat. The next contest was with the powerful Mt. Washington aggregation and Lehigh was bowled over 13 to 0 score. In the next tussle the team regained some of its previous form and blanked the Red and Blue 5 to 0. Lehigh was all primed to beat Hopkins in the game which decided the championship of the Southern Division but the "Doctors" proved themselves to be superior mud horses and by the time the final whistle blew the score read nine goals for the Blue and Black and only a solitary counter for the Brown and White. The game was played during an intense downpour and in a veritable sea of mud.

The cup for excellence in lacrosse was awarded to Captain Abel as a reward for his sterling performance on the defense.

Review of the Season

T first glance the 1924 season appears as a very unsuccessful one. But this can hardly be said when it is considered that every one of Lehigh's opponents had their best team in years, and that Lehigh made the best showing in many seasons against the two principal opponents. As the records show there was only one dual meet won and this was against a comparatively weak team. On the other hand the showing made against Lafayette and Rutgers was, without a doubt, the best during Coach Kanaly's regime. Lafayette had their usual array of stars but Lehigh partly offset this advantage by having a well-balanced aggregation. Rutgers just nosed out the Brown and White runners by two points in spite of the fact that the Scarlet runners were given a large advantage on paper.

Dickinson was the first opponent, and if they had been met later in the season it is almost certain that a different story would have been told. Delaware came to Bethlehem to match strides with Lehigh and were sent away with an overwhelming defeat by a 77 to 45 score. Lehigh journeyed to Swarthmore for the third meet of the season and the result of this meet was in doubt until the last event was finished but the Garnet trackmen came out on top with a 68 to 56 victory to their credit. Rutgers came here for their meet and snatched a two point victory but the Lehigh supporters were well satisfied with the showing of the Brown and White.

The team went to Easton with the determination of making a good showing and this is exactly what they did, even though the Maroon was victorious by some twenty points. In the Intercollegiates the team placed sixth with eleven points, which was the best showing made in this meet in many seasons. Johns-Hopkins won the Championship in these events having 36 points and Lafayette placing second with 32 points. The other teams finished in the following order; Rutgers, 14; W. & J., 14; Haverford, 13; Lehigh, 11; N. Y. U., 10; Muhlenberg, 8; Swarthmore, 5; Dickinson, 2; and Delaware, 2. Carol placed second in the two dashes and Gisriel won the title in the discus event.

Captain Carol was awarded the Phil McGrath cup for supremacy in the track events. Carol was not only high scorer for the team but placed second in the Middle Atlantics in both dashes and established a new college record in both of these events. The Theodore H. Meyers cup for superiority in field events was presented to John W. Gisriel who won the Middle Atlantic Crown in the discus besides establishing a new college record.

Note:—The low score wins in this sport.

Rebiem of the Season

HE number of dual meets won and lost during this season was even, and placing fourth in the Intercollegiates with seven teams competing is also a fact which demonstrates that Lehigh had a fair season in the hill and dale sport. The opening meet was at home with Dickinson on the same day as the football game, and even though Bayley of the visitors finished an easy first, teamwork won for Lehigh and the hill and dale men from Carlisle were nosed out by three points. It was this same teamwork throughout the season which enabled Lehigh to meet with a fair degree of success.

The next race was held with the old rivals at Easton and although the Brown and White put up a good fight they could not quite equal the efforts of the Maroon and the score was 22-33 in favor of the latter. With only 3 days rest the team went to Allentown and defeated Muhlenberg 25-30. The next week-end the team travelled to Schenectady, N. Y. ,and met more than their match in Union, the Bethlehem harriers losing 15-40.

The following week-end the final race on the program was the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiates held at VanCourtlandt Park, New York City. This event was won by Union with 46 points; Rutgers second with 49; Lafayette, third with 78; Lehigh, fourth with 89; Muhlenberg, fifth with 100 and N. Y. U., sixth with 103. Dickinson and Swarthmore also had individual entries but these did not count in the scoring because they did not have full teams. The victory of Union was all the more impressive because this was the first year in many that this institution competed in this sport and their success was due in a large measure to the coaching of Harold Bruce, formerly of Lafayette.

Review of the Season

Lehigh placed second in the Intercollegiates with 27 points.

Meets with the Army and Johns-Hop-kins were cancelled.

HE natators completed one of the most successful seasons in history this year, winning four meets and losing but one and placing second in the Intercollegiates. All the victories were by one-sided scores and several records were broken during the season.

The opening was with the N. Y. U. amphibians and was little more than practice for Lehigh, the Brown and White swimmers winning first place in all but one event. The initial home meet was with George Washington and here again the opponents garnered but one first place, but managed to keep in the running by winning quite a few second and third places.

Continuing its winning stride the team ducked the Catholic swimmers by a decisive score in the third meet, which was also in the home aquarium. Pilot set a new college record in the 220-yard breast-stroke, eclipsing his former mark by 3/5 of a second.

The team lost its only meet the following week to Rutgers at the latter's tank. Another record was broken in this meet but this time by an opponent, when Warner broke the furlong mark by 3/5 of a second. This was due in a large part to strong competition furnished by Harmon of Lehigh. The latter finished in lower time than the Lehigh record for this event.

Another record was broken in the next meet when Travis lowered the Eastern Intercollegiate time in the 150-yard backstroke by 2 and 4/5 seconds. The college records in the relay and 200-yard breast stroke were also smashed. The rivals were allowed but one first place.

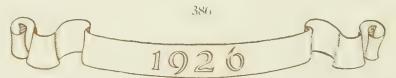

Lehigh placed second with 27 points in the Intercollegiates held at Weightman Hall, University of Pennsylvania, Rutgers winning with 47 points to their credit, the other teams finishing in the following order; Swarthmore, 14; Catholic U., 2; George Washington, 1. Astarita and Travis won the championship in the dive and back stroke respectively.

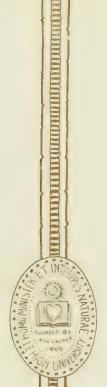

An innovation this year was an intra-mural meet held after the close of the regular season in which everybody was eligible to compete. There were one or two events held each day and a contestant could compete in any or all that he desired. Collective scores were kept and the results are recorded below.

HE season can hardly be considered a success from the number of matches won, although the balance is on the winning side with five matches won and four lost without including the Intercollegiate tourney. However, everything considered, it was indeed a good year. Three veterans, Captain Koegler, Fritz Mercur and Paul Lawall answered the first call for candidates. Practically the entire month of April was rendered useless both for practice and for matches due to the almost in-May, however, was a big improvement; the team rounded into shape and began to wreck havoc upon the opposing teams.

Two bright spots occurred during the season which are worthy of mention. The Middle Atlantic States Intercollegiate Association ran an Intercollegiate Tournament for the first time; Mercur and Lawall both of Lehigh were the finalists. Fritz won out taking the measure of his teammate in short order. Lehigh easily won the team trophy awarded upon a point system, finishing with almost triple the number of points of its nearest competitor, N. Y. U. In the National Intercollegiate tournament, Mercur again represented the University in good style. He succumbed to Jones of Yale in a hard fought match in the semi-finals.

Several teams of first calibre were met and a good showing was made against all of them. The West Side Tennis Club of New York which is composed largely of veterans, downed the Brown and White racquet wielders by a 5 to 1 score but all the matches were hard fought. The only other defeat which was by a one-sided score was at the hands of the Tiger netmen of Princeton. They had one of the best teams in years and Mercur extended their captain to extra game sets before he won out. Matches were cancelled with George Washington, Brooklyn Poly, Lafayette and Fordham because of poor weather conditions.

COACH CARPENTER

Resume of the Season

HE one redeeming feature of a rather disastrous season was the victory over Lafayette in the finale of the year. The team started the season with the brightest of prospects, since there were a large number of seasoned veterans and quite an array of first-class reserve talent. As the season progressed however, the team became seriously handicapped by injuries to several of the mainstays. The opener with Princeton was dropped by a 5 to 2 score mainly because the necessary teamwork had not been developed.

The next game was the annual struggle with West Point in which the Cadets won out by a 1 to 0 score, but only after a terrific struggle. One of the few victories of the season was turned in, in the next game with N. Y. U. The regular periods ended with the score deadlocked, but in the extra one Lehigh twice dented the net with a counter.

The first league contest resulted in a victory for Haverford, which team later won the Pennsylvania State championship, by the score of 4 to 0. In a game which bristled with uncanny speed the Navy was tied with one goal. It was impossible to play any extra periods because the Lehigh team was forced to leave. The next two league games with Penn and Swarthmore were dropped by the scores of 4 to 1 and 3 to 0 respectively. The one-sided score in the former was largely the result of heoric work on the part of the Penn goalie and in the latter, Swarthmore showed themselves to be better mud hounds than the Brown and White eleven. Penn State was the next opponent and they easily kept their six-year winning streak intact by downing the Lehigh team by six goals to none.

In the final game the team suddenly seemed to find themselves and outplayed the Maroon rivals in every department of the game and had things mostly their own way in winning 2 to 0. The score might have been even larger in favor of Lehigh had it not been for the superb work of the opposing goalie. Hawkins, the Brown and White goaltender, had only a very few stops to make which, goes to show that the ball was in Lafayette territory practically the entire game.

It is a difficult task to select players whose work has stood out in bold relief during the soccer season, but we feel safe in remarking of the performance of Nevins, Mercur and Walters. Nevins terrific booting power has made him invaluable in the back field, Mercur's consistent work on both the defense and offense has been noteworthy and Walters placing and centering of the ball, as well as clever footwork, has turned the tide of many an opponent's attack.

Three Lehigh men made the all-state team selected by Coach Carpenter. They were Nevins, Pineda and Mercur, all of whom justly deserved this honor.

Mustard and Cheese

HE Mustard and Cheese Dramatic Association was organized at Lehigh in 1885. Membership is open to all undergraduates. In former years, the club presented each season, one or two short melodramas, but two years ago they concentrated all of their efforts upon one musical comedy, written entirely by Lehigh undergraduates. The performance was a notable success, and since that time this type of performance has been given. The second and third musical productions, given this year and last year were marked successes, and have raised the standard of the club so that it is now on a par with the leading dramatic clubs of the collegiate world. These musical plays were produced entirely by undergraduates, including music and dances.

1924-25 ARCADIA

The Arcadia

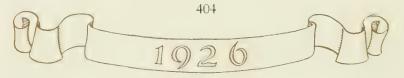

President
Allison L. Bayles

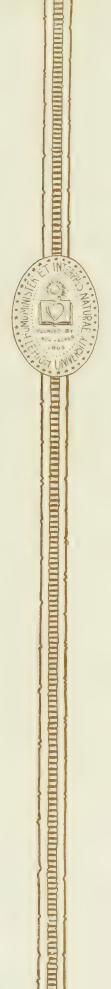

Treasurer
Edmund M. Burke

Secretary

RUSSELL W. LEE

HE Arcadia is the student governing body, and its membership consists of one representative who must be an upper classman from each of the living groups of students in the University. This body acts upon questions of campus activities, and serves as a medium between the faculty and students. All recommendations from students to the faculty are made through this organization. The President of the Arcadia is the recognized leader of the student body, and he presides at all college meetings.

Jobs for Lehigh Men

The growth of the chain store in the field of retail merchandising is an interesting matter of record and has opened up a wide and productive field of opportunity. McCrory 5 and 10c stores are well known in twenty-two States of the Union—almost half a century old and still growing.

We can use a few college men of the right kind as store managers and for other high executive positions after proper training.

For particulars: Address McCrory Stores Corporation General Offices, 1107 Broadway, New York City

VEEDER

PRODUCTS: Cyclometers for bicycles and motorcycles, to record distance traveled; odometers for motor trucks and horse-drawn vehicles, to register mileage; counters for recording the production of machines; speed counters for counting revolutions (per minute) of shafts or flywheels; tachometers for indicating in revolutions-per-minute the speed of motors, prime movers, generators or any revolving part, also fine die castings wherein absolute accuracy and uniformity are required.

Veeder Counters are made for every machine that should have one—all the models are shown in the Veeder counter booklet. Special circulars describe the other Veeder products: write for any or all of them.
